

Changing tire on 270—hit, killed

Dennis Ray Brown, 21, of 917 Grand Ave., Madison, was killed at 6:25 p.m. Sunday when his auto was struck by another vehicle while the young man apparently was changing a tire at the Route 200 exit ramp from Interstate 270, near Mitchell.

Mr. Brown, who had been driving east on 1270 before starting down the Granite City exit ramp, was pronounced dead at the scene by Madison County Deputy Coroner David Partney.

Illinois State Police said Mr. Brown's auto was halted on the shoulder of the road when struck from the rear by a truck operated by Darrel McClanahan, 19, of Florissant, Mo.

McClanahan was attempting to take the exit ramp when his truck hit a concrete curb divider and careened off the divider, striking Mr. Brown's vehicle in the rear.

The flailing man was injured in the collision and was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Investigations can advance public careers

(26th of a series on politics in Madison County)

The list of American heroes includes the persistent prosecutor, and this is as true in Madison County as in Illinois and the nation.

Such heroes in retrospect do not retain that label in the eyes of some citizens, but nevertheless many prosecutors found enough public backing to attain high offices, among them New York governor and twice Presidential nominee Thomas E. Dewey, former President Richard Nixon and current Illinois Governor James R. Thompson.

On and off the record Superman vs. Wonder Woman

Who is still more popular? Donald Duck or Little Orphan Annie? Will Babe Ruth win over Joe Louis? Does Glenn Miller have more fans than Tommy Dorsey? Is it Superman or Wonder Woman whom Illinoisans remember best?

The Illinois State Fair (Aug. 11-21 at Springfield) nostalgia theme recalls the 1930s and 1940s. And the State Board of Elections is making it possible for adults and youngsters to vote for their favorite cartoon character, sports high school leader and superhero of that era.

Cartoon candidates include Donald Duck, Mickey Mouse, Bugs Bunny, Orphan Annie and Porky Pig. Sports figures include Babe Ruth, Joe Louis, Joe Dimaggio, "Babe" Didrikson Zaharias and Jesse Owens.

For band leader, Glenn Miller, Louis Armstrong, Benny Goodman, Guy Lombardo and Tommy Dorsey are on the ballot.

On the superhero slate are Superman, Wonder Woman, Batman, Spiderman and Robin.

Time to seed new lawns Sept. 1

As you sow, so shall you reap.

The heat and humidity this summer have been tough on lawns, as well as on those who mow and trim them.

The Madison County Extension office (900 Hillboro, Edwardsville) of the University of Illinois Extension Service reminds Quad-Cityans that the best time for seeding a new lawn in the Madison County area is from Sept. 1 to Sept. 15.

It offers additional information on lawns in a 56-cent booklet, "Illinois Lawn Care and Establishment."

Solving of crimes in county below average

(Excerpts from findings by the Southwestern Illinois Law Enforcement Commission)

The following table presents police service cost per capita data for Madison County municipalities in 1974 (gathered by SILEC for planning purposes):

Municipal population and police service cost per capita:

Over 10,000 — $23.10

5,000 to 9,999 — 29.80

1,000 to 4,999 — 30.50

Especially among these smaller forces, the quality of crime scene search evidence processing and detective work is weak, and forensic capabilities are lacking.

Clearance-by-arrest rates in Madison County are well below the national average performance and below the level prevailing in neighboring St. Clair County outside East St. Louis.

Despite this poor performance, no formal mechanism has yet been established to provide a more comprehensive approach to criminal investigation in the county.

Two SILEC-funded joint investigation units have had beneficial, but limited, impact. No county-level capability to develop a coordinated approach has emerged, and the prevailing atmosphere existing in the county has rendered municipal forces extremely reluctant to call upon the Sheriff's or State's Attorney's offices for such leadership.

Although the scope of this analysis did not encompass an in-depth study of the Madison County Sheriff's Office, certain facets of the organization and operations of this office are of primary importance to the county's criminal justice system.

Principally because of factors cited, the Sheriff's Department appears to be relatively isolated from other law enforcement agencies in the county.

There are indices of both understaffing and undersupport of the office by the county.

In 1944, per capita expenditures on behalf of police coverage for rural citizens provided by the Sheriff's Office were $14.10, unduly low compared with the municipal levels previously noted.

Partial workload data reviewed during the study indicate that Sheriff's Office patrol officers respond to an average of 4.4 significant police

2 factions dispute use of church

Authorities were called to the Briarcliff Pentecostal Church, 1120 West Pontoon Road, at 4:45 p.m. Saturday and were told that two factions of church members were having a disagreement.

There currently is a lawsuit pending to determine which group should have control of the church and who should be the minister.

One group Saturday contended that the other removed chains around the parking lot, took down a "no trespassing" sign, and painted the pastor's name off the church sign.

The other group said it did remove a rope around the parking lot so that a service could be held in the church.

Some desiring to hold a service said they had been members for 20 years and had built the church building.

They also said they have changed the locks to the church, but did not paint the sign or take the no trespassing sign. The gathering of about 45 persons broke up after talking with police.

Woman struck during purse-snatching try

Joyce Denson, 1629 Fifth St., Madison, was struck by a young man who attempted to take her purse on the front porch of her home about 10 p.m. Saturday, she reported Sunday.

She said she was leaving her home and on the front porch a man in his 20s with shoulder-length hair struck her on the right side of her head and tried unsuccessfully to grab her purse.

The young man then fled. She suffered discoloration and swelling around her right eye.

Pontoon Beach streets improved

By GARY SCHNEIDER of the Press-Record Staff

Despite earlier contentions that some work being done in Pontoon Beach by the Nameki Township Department was below standard, the village board Thursday night agreed the problems have been corrected and the village streets are in better conditions than they have been in five years.

The township is resurfacing many village streets under a contract with the village in return for payments of motor fuel tax funds by the village to the township.

The township subcontracted some of the work to a private firm which did the work

Grant for pre-college instruction

SIUE has been awarded a $254,995 grant for continuing support of its "Developing Science Awareness and Capability in Low Income
 Students" project.

The national demonstration project, funded by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for a third year, is designed to motivate students from disadvantaged areas to study science and engineering.

The program provides high school students with pre-college training so they will be able to succeed when they reach the university level, Mrs. Miriam Dusenbery, coordinator of the program and professor of education at SIUE, said.

Students in the program are chosen primarily because of financial need. Their motivation and ability to succeed is also reviewed, she said.

To acquaint students with the world of science, students receive information on possible careers through classroom presentations and field trips.
 Trips are arranged to visit area industrial, institutional and business establishments so that students receive first-hand knowledge about careers in the sciences and engineering. Individual counseling and tutoring also are provided.

College courses offered at area high schools are courses that would ordinarily have to be taken by any student entering a science curriculum, Mrs.
 Dusenbery said. At present, the program is reaching more than 200 students, raising the level of competence in the academic areas related to these careers, she said.

Lake Michigan 'saved' from steel mills—Scott

Illinois Attorney General
 William J. Scott and Metropolitan Sanitary District
 President Nicholas J. Melan last week announced successful conclusion of their joint suit against pollution of Lake
 Michigan by the United States
 Steel Corporation's giant steel plant at Gary, Ind.

Pointing out that eight years ago scientists predicted that Lake Michigan would become a dead lake, Scott said the latest court victory means, "We can save the lake!"

"Cook County Circuit Court Judge George J. Schaller's order—along with our successful lawsuits against mills near Lake Michigan—marks the end of an historic chapter in our battle to preserve the lake," Scott said.

"Every steel mill in the gigantic Chicago-Gary steelmaking complex—the largest in the world—will now recycle and reuse its waste waters rather than dumping them into the lake."

Scott said the seeds of the court victory were planted in his previous successful anti-pollution suits against U.S.
 Steel's South Chicago Works,
 Republic Steel, Interlake Steel,
 Youngstown Sheet and Tube, and Inland Steel.

The new decision requires
 U.S. Steel to completely recycle and filter its waste waters at its Gary works.

Beginning in 1979 and concluding by Aug. 31, 1985, U.S.
 Steel must construct and operate huge advanced waste-treatment recycle and filtration facilities for all its steelmaking activities.

Scott praised a recent decision won by Region Five of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency against the Gary works, and contended that, because of weak national pollution limits, the regional EPA could not go far enough in halting U.S. Steel's pollution of Lake Michigan.

 The EPA decision was primarily limited to the blast furnace area and left the rolling mills, comprising most of the plant, virtually untouched, he argued.

Scott praised Judge Schaller for making the settlement possible and emphasized "the crucial role played by the courts in using the doctrine of common law nuisance to override national standards which have been little more than licenses to pollute."

"Today's decision, following the previous week's historic court decision ordering an end to Milwaukee's pollution of Lake Michigan, means that all major polluters are now under court orders to install the most advanced waste treatment available to eliminate or minimize their contaminated discharges into Lake Michigan."

GC Lions aid deaf and blind children

Plans were made by the Granite City Lions club
 Thursday evening in Charlie's Restaurant to bring two local deaf youngsters and two blind children home after two weeks at Camp Lions.

"Illinois Camp Lions is on
 Hastings Lake near Lake Villa
 Ill., and is operated for blind and deaf children. It features a full camp-style program of swimming, canoeing, hiking, campfires and outdoor cooking under the guidance of a highly-trained staff."

The camp accommodates 150 blind and deaf children between eight and 18 years of age and operates a series of two-week camping periods each summer, according to Harley Davis, president of the GC Lions.

The club also voted to donate $1,000 to the Lions Foundation to be used in aiding blind and deaf people in Illinois.
 A report on five local handicapped children who have just returned from a Belleville Lions Club camp was also given.

During a business meeting, the GC Lions voted to spend $200 to purchase a glass eye for a Granite City child, and to buy a pair of special eye glasses for another local child.

Davis announced that the next major program to raise funds will be Candy Day in October.

Job losses due to imports are alleged

Steel imports into the U. S. in the first six months of 1977 rose to the highest level of any first half since 1971. It is alleged today at Granite City Steel.

Steel import tonnage for the first half of this year stood at 26 per cent above the same period last year.

June's steel imports closed the half by registering an increase of 34 per cent above June 1976, according to U. S. Commerce Department data just released by the American Iron and Steel Institute.

Increases in foreign steel shipments into this country are said to be producing widening industry profits and slumping production.

The United Steelworkers of America calculates that 42,000 jobs have been lost or are now receiving federal adjustment assistance because of loss of work directly attributable to foreign imports.

Granite City Steel, as well as other National Steel Corporation divisions, is urging its employees to write postcards to President Jimmy Carter "protesting the loss of jobs to steel imports."

At 5:30 a.m. Sunday, Granite City police arrested a 23-year-old man from Raymond, Ill., walking on Nameoki Road wearing only a tee-shirt and a pair of yellow women's underpants.

3rd effort to sell Pontoon police autos

The Pontoon Beach Village Board will try a third time to sell two used police cars after voting Thursday night to reject all bids received for the second time.

The two cars—a dark green 1974 Ford Torino and a light blue 1975 full-sized Dodge—have been offered for sale twice as a single package for $400, the highest bid was $300 total for both.

The board decided to offer the cars for sale on an individual basis, hoping to increase the number of interested bidders.

Bids read by the board Thursday night were for $400, $700 and $800. Village Board President Floyd David Moss suggested that bids be accepted only on an "as is" basis.

The board was divided on whether the $800 bid should be accepted and Trustees Leonard Madison, Paul Bennett and Raymond Gaudette Jr. voted in favor of accepting that bid.

Trustees Donald C. Rea, Duane Skinner and Keith Biggs voted to reject the bid, leaving the decision to Moss, who voted "no" and instructed the clerk, "Advertise for sealed bids again, but this time on a one or both cars basis."

In other business, the board agreed to ask the state highway department to improve the intersection of the road of Gallego Walk and Lake Drive.

It also was decided to seek sealed bids on supplying unleaded and regular gasoline for village vehicles. The bids will be opened Sept. 8.

Driver flees; is arrested in Mitchell area

Roy Brinker, 56, of 36 Edwards Mobile Home Park, was charged with leaving the scene of an accident, failing to reduce speed to avoid an accident and reckless driving after his auto and the car of Patrick MacMillan, 21, of 2940 State St., were involved in an accident on Nameoki Road at Victory Drive at 2:55 a.m. Sunday.

Witnesses said MacMillan's northbound auto was stopped for a red light when a dark-colored Ford struck the rear of it and then left the scene after the accident.

A witness alleged following the car to East Chain of Rocks Road in Mitchell where the police were called. Officers arrested Brinker near the auto and returned him to Granite City where the charges were filed.

MacMillan, who had two passengers in his auto were injured and were taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital. MacMillan's left knee and left arm were injured and left side and was released after x-rays were taken.

Don Goldsmith, 21, of 2925 Delmar Ave., was x-rayed for pain to his right hip, left knee and head and was released.

The other passenger, Craig Martinez, 21, of 2227 Alexander Ave., was treated for abrasions to his right arm, head and back and a possible spinal strain. X-rays were taken and he was released.

MacMillan died Friday at the Anna Hering Nursing Home in Edwardsville. She also is survived by another daughter, Mrs. Alvin (Esther) Wiesmeyer of Edwardsville. She was a member of St. Boniface Church, Edwardsville.

Solving crimes

actions per shift, compared to the 2 to 3 per shift observed in adequately staffed forces.

The office has only six detectives, a force barely sufficient to meet internal requirements, much less assist municipal forces, should such assistance be requested.

The number of Part I services reported to the Sheriff's Office increased by 50 per cent between 1974 and 1975 alone.

The clearance rate declined from 7.9 to 7.2.

Interviews conducted during this study indicated general concern in rural areas of the county regarding the relatively low levels of patrol coverage provided by the Sheriff's Office.

The effect of these shortfalls has been compounded by underutilization of the resources that have been furnished to support office operations.

Deployment patterns appear to reflect undue concentration of patrol strength in the urban areas of the county and on state roadways, where the state police also patrol.

Special emphasis is placed on the use of almost 100 per cent of the sheriff's work force — are used almost exclusively as full-time process servers has been discontinued in many progressive sheriff's offices elsewhere.

Service of process is in such cases assigned to road patrol deputies, whose number is increased as full-time process servers are terminated.

Despite apparent resource needs, there appears to be an active support in the county for significant expansion of the Sheriff's Office.

Such support is likely to remain difficult to generate until perceptions of the political nature of the Sheriff's Office are overcome, and greater confidence in the office's overall effectiveness can be established.

Special emphasis programs established by SILEC have enjoyed less full support in Madison County, partly because of SILEC's less visible role here.

For example, participation in the useful mobile team training program has been noticeably less extensive than elsewhere in the region.

MECS (Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwestern Illinois) has been well received in many Madison County communities and has benefited from strong support by the State's Attorney's Office.

The effectiveness of its operations has been heightened by the Circuit Court's rigorous judicial interpretation of state criminal statutes.

Some communities, however, have been reluctant to participate in MECS, for reasons that in a few cases appear to include reluctance to recognize the substantial traffic law violations and narcotics traffickers pose in the county.

The effectiveness of most elements of the county's judicial system is perceived to have increased in recent years. But opportunities for improvement in the system still abound.

Recent progress has barely kept pace with growth in the scope and significance of the workload.

Two major structural weaknesses in the county's judicial system have impeded its overall effectiveness and the effectiveness of the elements of the judicial system in particular.

First, the physical facilities made available for criminal justice purposes are inadequate.

John W. Lewis, 71, dies

Illinois secretary of state in 1970-72, John W. Lewis, 71, died Friday in a Terre Haute, Ind., hospital. He had been admitted to Union Hospital for treatment of a heart ailment.

The lifelong Marshall County resident ran a 200-acre livestock farm and was a cattle auctioneer. He served in the Illinois House in 1940-48 and 1949-46 and was a state senator in 1949-40.

Mrs. Lewis served as Republican House speaker. Governor Richard B. Ogilvie appointed him director of agriculture in 1969 and as secretary of state after the death of Secretary Paul Powell.

He is survived by his wife of 50 years, three daughters, a sister and three grandchildren. Services were held Sunday afternoon at a Marshall mortuary.

REINHARDT-Realtor
Sells-BETTER LIVING!

The county's jail is too small. As a result, prisoners who are sentenced to the county are released because space to house them is unavailable.

County Court House is obsolete and too small to house the offices of the Circuit Court and related agencies.

The offices of these agencies are therefore scattered over downtown Edwardsville.

Second, and even more importantly, the county has historically undersupported its public services bodies, the State's Attorney's Office and the Public Defender's Office, both absolutely (in comparison to prevailing workload volume) and relatively (in comparison to the practice in similar jurisdictions).

For example, a 1972-1973 comparative study of the prosecution function in Illinois — which included a study of the Madison County State's Office as well as 12 others — noted that: "Per capita expenditures for prosecution services in the Madison County State's Attorney's Office in Madison County were lower than those incurred in each of the other six large counties and lower than five of six smaller counties" included in the study."

As a consequence, the county provided the lowest number of full-time equivalent prosecutors per population and per number law enforcement officers, and individual prosecutors had the largest caseloads of any county prosecutor's office studied."

This analysis also noted the extremely adverse effect that shortages in prosecutive personnel have on the quality of cases presented to the courts, and the pressures thus created to dispose of cases quickly through dismissal or plea bargaining.

Little improvement has been made since that time: between 1971 and 1975: —The level of serious crime in the county virtually doubled.

—The volume of felony cases confronting the State's Attorney's Office quadrupled.

—Funding support for other elements of the county's criminal justice agencies increased rapidly.

Funding for municipal police forces increased by more than 100 per cent.

The Sheriff's Office's budget increased by 98.6 per cent.

The court's budget increased by 66.3 per cent.

Funding for the Probation Department increased by 44.5 per cent.

During the same period, funding for the State's Attorney's and Public Defender's Offices increased by only 16.46 and 44.7 per cent, respectively.

As a consequence, paralleling the situation in St. Clair County but reflecting a major critical example, shortfalls in the capabilities of these two offices have become severe bottlenecks in the flow of work within Madison County's criminal justice system.

The impact of this situation is two-fold.

First, neither office is able to devote sufficient time to the investigation or preparation of all cases.

This reduces the quality of representation afforded to the interests of both the public and the defendants, and leads to undue pressure for the early disposition of cases through such measures as plea bargaining.

Second, both offices must concentrate their efforts on the most serious cases, which are customarily felonies.

The disposition of misdemeanors suffers from a pronounced absence of priorities and legal energies.

As one result, municipalities have increasingly directed their police officers to charge misdemeanors under city ordinances, which are prosecutable by city attorneys.

This condition, rather than any actual reduction in workload, underlies recent reductions in misdemeanor case filings (from 7,956 in 1971 to 3,490 in 1974, for example).

To speed up the disposition of such cases, punishment for most such offenses is a fine or a period of incarceration.

Therefore, justice becomes a matter not of equity but of affordability.

County, this office is currently the weakest single link in Madison County's criminal justice system.

It also shares some of the typical flaws existing in Illinois prosecutors' offices, including informal organization and discipline of work flow, low utilization of staff as compared to other offices.

These users noted the potential for cost reduction in office operations, citing weak organization, poorly disciplined work flow and inefficient utilization of staff as contributing causes.

The validity of these viewpoints could not be verified or discounted during the study.

Efforts made during the course of this analysis to arrange personal interviews with members of this office were unsuccessful.

The previously noted SILEC study of regional court system practices had proven beneficial in part, but implementation of its recommendations has been limited.

A SILEC-funded county information system now under development appears to be a sensible, well-conceived alternative that has focused soundly on a calendar management and case review and has contributed directly to more efficient operation of the court.

The full capabilities of this system for analysis and reporting of disposition information have not been utilized, however.

This appears to stem from statewide efforts to limit the utilization of such data sources for judicial accountability and comparison purposes.

As emphasized throughout this report, the more vigorous sentencing policies adopted by the court in recent years have had numerous and highly beneficial effects.

These have contributed directly to the substantial reduction of certain types of crime in the county.

They have led to an emerging restoration of public confidence in the equity and effectiveness of the courts.

They have galvanized other elements of the county's criminal justice system to higher levels of performance.

However, the positive shift of the past two years reflects the vulnerability of the sentencing process to individual judicial in the strained environment of Madison County, this has resulted in mutual recriminations, rather than constructive action.

The process has become virtually institutionalized, as police departments have appointed court liaison officers whose principal task is to engage in plea bargaining with the State's Attorney's Office before the plea bargaining between the office and the defendants.

The number has insufficient numbers of seasoned trial attorneys to address the present backlog of cases effectively, much less to approach misdemeanor and traffic offense prosecution vigorously.

This impedes prosecutive aggressiveness and has contributed to a low and declining rate of felony disposition by trial.

The proportion of felony cases disposed of by trial in the county declined from 6.8 per cent in 1972 to 3.1 per cent in 1975, although the number of dispositions by trial increased from 25 to 38 in this period.

In 1975, 92 per cent of convictions were secured by plea.

It should be noted that these data do not reflect adversely on the skill or enthusiasm of the county's prosecutive forces. Rather, they reflect the impact of a massive increase in workload and on a professional work force that has remained essentially stable over the past four years — that has created the bottleneck noted above.

The Madison County Public Defender's Office shares many of the resource limitations noted.

At present, the office is reasonably well-balanced in comparison with the State's Attorney's Office.

Major changes in the composition of structure of either office would require shifts in the capacity of the other to maintain this balance.

The Madison County Circuit Court is adversely affected by institutional deficiencies in the Illinois court system and by limitations imposed by the county's prosecutive and defense functions.

The court also suffers from three additional drawbacks:

1. Present facilities provided for court purposes are antiquated and insufficient. They impede, rather than promote, the maintenance of a suitable atmosphere of decorum and dignity.

2. In the unique environment of Madison County, it has proven especially difficult for members of the judiciary to be however dedicated and competent — to insulate themselves effectively from public perceptions of political involvement.

3. Finally, the court appears to be hindered by the less-than-optimum operation of the Circuit Clerk's Office.

Users of the office's services report dissatisfaction with these operations, citing weak organization, poorly disciplined work flow and inefficient utilization of staff as contributing causes.

However, the positive shift of the past two years reflects the vulnerability of the sentencing process to individual judicial philosophies. And the potential for reversal of these policies underscores the need for more fundamental realignment in the state's legal structure and organization.

The Madison County Jail is universally recognized as an outdated facility and is scheduled to be replaced.

Prospective costs for a new jail have soared well above original estimates, largely because of the county's determination to locate the new jail in downtown Edwardsville rather than at more suitable nearby locations.

Consequently, consideration has been given to reducing the originally planned capacity of the new jail to cut costs.

Although it would generate a net economic surplus, such a reduction in capacity evokes concern among knowledgeable observers, who fear that it will within the useful life of the planned facility — be confronted with a capacity shortage.

Under such circumstances, the county would be faced with two undesirable alternatives:

1. Constructing and operating a second confinement center.

2. Urging the court to adopt less stringent pre-trial confinement and sentencing policies for defendants and adjudicated criminals.

In recent years, the Madison County Court Services and Probation Department has been countywide and expanded, largely through the infusion of SILEC grants.

Retention of the expanded complement of probation officers beyond the expiration of grant support is doubtful, as key officials concerned with the retention decision have not observed a noticeable difference in the effectiveness of the probation process with the reduction in caseloads thus accomplished.

Conversely, a joint program to pursue revocation of probation more vigorously when conditions warrant is perceived to have been highly beneficial.

Under this program, the number of former probationers sentenced to incarceration following revocation increased from four in 1973 to 18 in 1976.

department "might cause them to drop us."

Mayor Moss noted that the board and Biggs were absent when the board directed him to write the letter to Melchior and added, "The letter was justified."

He said the oiling and chipping on two streets were unsatisfactory.

Madison said he objected to the tone of the letter and said it indicated that all of the work done by the township and its subcontractor was unsatisfactory. He contended that many streets were resurfaced without problems.

Trustee Don C. Rea disagreed, saying, "The state inspector inspected the entire village and said it was not a good job overall."

A vote was taken on whether a letter of thanks should be written by Moss. It failed, with Madison, Bennett and Biggs voting to send a letter and Rea, Duane Skinner, Raymond Gaudette Jr. and Moss voting that a letter is unnecessary.

"Our check for the work will be all the thanks that is necessary," Moss contended.

After the vote, Moss made a public statement, saying, "I just want to go on record as saying the township has done a fine job in the village and we look forward to good service in the future from Nameoki Township."

In other business, the board voted to increase the pay of the village treasurer by $25, to $275 per month. It was the first pay increase for the treasurer in five years.

Rea commented, "I do not believe we could get such professional service anywhere for that price."

Trustee Skinner abstained from voting on the increase for the treasurer, Loretta Skinner, because she is his wife.

The board recessed until 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 18, at which time it will consider accepting the plat for the Jones Park area and dedicating it so that the village can assume the responsibility of maintaining the roads.

Sanitary district wants hearing on EPA denial

The Metro-East Sanitary District approved Friday a detailed objection to the denial of a secondary sewage treatment permit by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, and members of the Sanitary District Board said they will request the EPA hold a public hearing on the issue.

The action was taken in a meeting at which Edward Maag, board attorney, that the district is being "picked on" by the EPA because of the district's reluctance to wholeheartedly endorse a plan for construction of a regional secondary sewage treatment plant that would be built by the village of Sauget.

Maag noted that the sanitary district has tried as hard as other agencies to comply with laws regarding construction of secondary treatment facilities, but that federal EPA authorities are "inconsistent, misinformed or just prejudiced."

Five local governments would participate in the regional treatment system in a plan approved by the EPA. These include East St. Louis, Sauget, Cahokia, the Cahokia Community Water District and the Metro-East Sanitary District.

The Sanitary District has held up completion of an agreement for the project with a demand that the district be made a voting member of the plan's advisory operating committee. The other four agencies have approved the agreement as originally drawn in a meeting with EPA authorities in Edwardsville.

Attorneys for Sauget say the district project in favor of the regional program.

a voting membership is unacceptable to Sauget. The proposed $40 million secondary facility would be built by Sauget and would be operated by an organization of Sauget industries.

The five local governments were warned at the Edwardsville meeting by EPA officials that suits were being prepared against them for failure to provide treatment by a July 1 deadline, but that an agreement for the regional treatment project probably would stop the government from filing suits against the violators.

The Sanitary District contends that it was prepared to build its own secondary sewage treatment plant but that EPA withdrew its approval of the district project in favor of the regional program.

Begin using river road's Venice link

Approximately 100 area and state officials were on hand at 10 a.m. today for the opening of Federal Route 151 between Niedringhaus Avenue and Broadway during ceremonies held on the new six-lane roadway.

Pieces of the red, white and blue ribbon that was cut were given to the officials.

Those attending were welcomed by District Engineer Harold Monrooney of the Illinois Department of Transportation. Monrooney apologized for the many delays in the opening, saying that the delays were due to circumstances beyond our control.

Monrooney introduced various officials, thanking them for their parts in the building and completion of the new 1.5-mile addition to the Great River

William "Mike" Ebersold, mayor of Venice, was afforded the microphone and told the history of the highway and the Venice underpass at the southern end of the addition. He referred the delays were due to circumstances beyond our control.

Monrooney introduced various officials, thanking them for their parts in the building and completion of the new 1.5-mile addition to the Great River

Ebersold introduced State Senator Sam Vandalabene, who was a central figure in the history of the highway project. Released funds for the highway project.

Monrooney along with Ebersold, Mayor Mike Savary of Madison, Mayor Paul Schuler of Granite City, Sen. Vandalabene and state representatives of Districts 56, 57 and 49, then cut the ribbon, marking the opening of the highway.

Reach agreement on Illinois Bell pact

A tentative agreement on local issues involved in negotiations between the Bell Telephone Co. and workers of six unions was reached Saturday night, preventing a strike throughout the system.

Ken Evers, district manager for Illinois Bell in Granite City, said no date has been announced for voting on ratification of the agreement, but that he expects it will be as soon as possible.

Evers said the agreement was reached with Communications Workers of America, districts 5 and 6; International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; Comptrollers, and Secretaries; International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers System Comptroller T-4; Telephone Commercial Employers Union and the Commercial Telephone Workers Union.

The tentative agreement, if ratified, will cover 25,500 workers in all six unions. Evers said in CWA District Six, which includes Granite City, Belleville and East St. Louis, the new pact would cover 650 workers.

Evers said no details of the agreement have been released pending ratification. All were local issues not covered in the national agreement reached last week.

A tentative agreement between the Southwestern Bell and workers of CWA Districts 6 and 12, covering more than 61,000 employees in five states, also was reached Saturday in time to avert a strike.

Union members are expected to vote on that pact by Sept. 6.

Schools phasing in free textbook loans

When eight-year-old Brad Thomas is handed his mathematics book this fall, he may not be especially impressed. But his parents are likely to be.

Brad is one of 656,105 Illinois school children who will receive a textbook under the state's new textbook loan program.

Nearly one-fourth of all school children in Illinois will be loaned a textbook this school year in the first large distribution of books under the new program.

Last year, in a pilot program, 4,000 elementary students received books purchased with the initial $10,000 appropriation. This year, the state legislature provided $3.5 million for the program.

The legislature has increased that to $5 million for next year. Even that amount, however, is not enough to pay for all textbooks. The State Board of Education estimates it would take at least $27 million annually to cover the cost.

As a result, the program is being phased in, with books provided to elementary students first, on a one-book-per-student basis. After all elementary pupils have had the opportunity to receive a book, then books will be made available to high school students.

This year, all requests were filled for kindergarten through third grade students. Funds remaining were used to fill requests in the higher elementary grades.

The program will pick up next year where it left off, and will provide books for students in the fourth grade or above.

Requests for textbooks were received this year from 650, or two-thirds of the state's 896 public elementary and high school districts, and from 752, or just under half of the state's non-public schools.

Of the $3.5 million spent on books for the program this year, a little over $1.5 million went to Cook County schools, with $279,296 going to Chicago public schools. The average cost per textbook was $5.36.

The statewide breakdown showed that $2.5 million went for textbooks in public schools while $950,000 went for books to be used in non-public schools. The remainder was spent on books for handicapped students.

The Illinois textbook law, created in 1975, was patterned after a Pennsylvania law which had been declared unconstitutional that year by the U.S. Supreme Court.

A recent Supreme Court decision on an Ohio textbook law further affirmed the constitutionality of using public funds for private school textbooks.

That decision, in fact, added that the services to non-public schools could include counseling, guidance and testing. The court, however, did disapprove using state money for supplementary materials and supplies. When fully implemented, the Illinois program will provide each public and non-public student with access to all necessary textbooks. The loan program, however, will not provide supplementary school materials, such as workbooks, atlases, dictionaries or other supplies.

According to State Superintendent of Education Joseph M. Cronin, the program could be fully phased in within four to five years, depending on future funding by the legislature and approval by the governor.

Illinois is one of three dozen states which now defines "free public education" as including textbooks.

Under the program, each school district participating selected the books to be ordered. Their requests were forwarded to regional superintendents, who compiled them and sent them to the State Board of Education in March for processing. By May 13, the state education office had mailed 4,792 purchase orders to 36 book companies to order books for the schools.

By June 1, cartons of textbooks had begun arriving on the doorsteps of Illinois schools.

When the school doors open again in late August, 1,402 Illinois schools or school districts will begin distributing these new books to their students. Books which look similar to their other textbooks, but which are loaned without cost to the student or his or her family.

Questions and answers on the textbook loan program follow: Q. How does a student get textbooks under this program?

A. The service is requested through the school principal, not through the state education office.

Requests for texts and the distribution of these books are handled at the local level. Initially, students will have the opportunity to receive the loan of only one free textbook per year until the program is fully phased in.

Q. What is considered a textbook?

A. State regulations define secular textbooks as "printed volumes which may be used by students as a primary resource of study for a body of knowledge, suitable for use in the public schools." This does not include audio-visual materials, workbooks or reference books such as dictionaries and atlases.

Q. What about the form the student or parent has to sign for the free loan of a textbook? How does the parent or student know for sure what books to request for the student's use next year?

A. The student or parent requests the service, not the specific books needed. A model form provided by the Illinois Office of Education states: "I hereby request the loan of secular textbooks in accordance with Public Act 79-961 of 1976." It does not ask which books the student will be needing.

Q. How many books are on the textbook list the state has compiled for school to order from?

A. The list contains 15,000 books, a compilation of all eligible textbooks of 36 book companies bonded to sell textbooks in Illinois.

Q. How does the state select the books on this list?

A. The state does not select these books. The state education office simply compiles the list of all textbooks meeting the criteria of the law and which are available from textbook companies bonded to sell books in Illinois.

The school still has the same number of books to choose from now that it did before the textbook loan program became law.

Q. How was this list compiled?

A. Letters were sent to all 79 companies bonded by the state to sell textbooks to Illinois schools. The letter asked each company to submit a complete list of books which met the definition of secular textbooks and were, therefore, eligible for purchase under the new state textbook law.

Book companies responded, providing computerized information, including catalog numbers, titles, grade levels and prices.

This information was then verified by the state education office and compiled into a master list, divided alphabetically by book company and subject area.

Q. What if an eligible book accidentally has been omitted from the list? Does that mean it can't be ordered?

A. No. Schools will be able to request that book anyway. The list is flexible and has already been expanded to include books inadvertently omitted.

The list will be revised annually to include publishers' latest products. Any textbook meeting the definition will be eligible for purchases by a school, providing the company is bonded to sell textbooks in Illinois.

Masquers plan new season

The board of directors of The Masquers has set the group's 1977-78 theater season, selecting two musicals, a children's show and a drama to be performed both in Collinsville and Granite City. The Masquers will present the Broadway musical hit "Gypsy" in early November.

In January, the group will produce "The Lark," Jean Anouilh's drama about the life of St. Joan of Arc. Masquers will give its children's audience the often requested "Wizard of Oz." The group will end its season in June with the ever-popular "Camelot."

The Masquers is a not-for-profit community theater group incorporated with the state of Illinois. The theater company draws its talent from various area communities. Auditions for all productions are open to all interested persons.

Tryouts for the group's first production, "Gypsy," will be held Sunday, Aug. 28 at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. and Monday, Aug. 29 at 7 p.m. All sessions will be held on the third floor of the Miners Theater in Collinsville. Roles are available for all age groups.

Anyone interested in auditioning for "Gypsy" may contact director Jim Swenick at 344-1823.

Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Joe Judson from Pittsburg, Calif.; Miss Charlene Landis from Boston, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Perry and children, Amy and Drew, from Sikeston, Mo.; and Mrs. Anna Liebet of Granite City.

The family also celebrated the birthday of Stephen Perry during the weekend.

County offered grant to serve the unemployed

Governor James R. Thompson announced Wednesday that his Office of Manpower will make available grants of up to $10,000 to city and county governments in Illinois to help them provide more efficient service to the state's jobless and economically disadvantaged.

Potential recipients of the one-time Technical Assistance (TA) grants are prime sponsors under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA).

Under CETA, units of city or county government (or a consortium of governments) with at least 100,000 population are eligible for direct grants from the U.S. Department of Labor to operate employment and training programs in Illinois.

"The TA grants," Thompson said, "can help CETA prime sponsors improve delivery of services to CETA participants by enabling sponsors to hire consultants and experts whose salaries cannot be paid from the sponsors' regular grant."

"Examples of services might include revision or refinement of a sponsor's fiscal system or improvement of client intake and assessment by adding an automated information system," Thompson said.

Illinois CETA prime sponsors receiving notices to apply for the TA grants, which must be obligated by June 30, 1978, include the Madison-Bond Counties CETA consortium.

The nation's 200th birthday project is the American Land Trust for rare and endangered species of birds, she said. The Little Black Slough in Johnson County and Cedar Glen Eagle Rook in Hancock County are two of the land trusts in the state of Illinois, Mrs. Jenkins added.

A study program on "Urban Runoff" relating to how rain water is polluted from the air and ground environment, was discussed by Mrs. Bradley.

The business segment was conducted by Mrs. Eldon Melkamp, club president.

Dignity and worth of work will be stressed

A career education project established by the School of Education at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and utilized in several schools in this region is teaching students there is more to a job than putting in the required hours and collecting a salary.

The university has been awarded a $24,000 grant by the Department of Adult, Vocational and Technical Education in the Illinois Office of Education.

The grant will provide continuing financial support of the project entitled "Measuring Career Readiness in Elementary-Secondary Education." This will be the fourth year SIUE has received such funding.

Purpose of the project is to measure children's awareness of the grown-up's world of work. The tests concentrate on sex role stereotyping, what students see as rewards for working, jobs they see as having a great deal of esteem, and tasks and duties related to particular occupations.

"On the basis of the tests, we decide where the student is right now and give him or her learning experiences that will broaden that knowledge," Carolyn Corine, research associate, said.

"Since the most crippling effect of a stereotypical thought pattern is the restriction it places on an individual's range of viable career alternatives, activities will be designed to expand children's career horizons at an early age."

Learning activities are constructed that illustrate there are no right or wrong reasons for working, indicating that people are unique and work for different reasons.

Students are taught to identify types and degrees of rewards inherent in various occupations.

Activities are arranged to help students examine their value systems in relation to various types of occupations, illustrating the dignity and worth of all labor. Group discussions center around what makes a job considered "best" or "worst."

Learning activities are constructed to broaden students' scope of career awareness and increase their ability to assimilate career education concepts.

The SIUE Department of Elementary Education will offer a class on career education during the fall quarter. Designed for elementary teachers, Career Education (ED 247.2) will meet on Wednesdays from 5:30 until 7:20 p.m. Two quarter hours of graduate credit will be awarded to students satisfactorily completing the course.

Paddlers adult party Saturday

Floyd Peterson, president of the executive board of directors of Paddlers Swim Pool, presided at a monthly meeting held at the pool pavilion as plans were discussed for the annual adult swim party.

He announced the event will be held from 7 p.m. to midnight on Saturday, Aug. 20. Members and guests attending will pay a fee of $2 and are to bring their own refreshments.

Board members also agreed to keep the pool open from 1 to 9 p.m. daily until Labor Day, Sept. 5, which will be the final day of operation.

Physicals for girls' sports

Girls who will be sophomores, juniors or seniors who plan to participate in the interscholastic tennis, field hockey, or volleyball teams at either North or South may take their required physical examination on Wednesday, Aug. 17, beginning at 12 noon in the girls' gymnasium at South High School.

No student is permitted to practice or play as a member of any high school athletic team until a record of a physical examination, taken within one calendar year prior to the beginning of the season, is on file at the school.

Examinations, good for the 1977-78 school year, may be taken at South on Wednesday or Thursday. A physical examination obtained from the family physician, a special form, which may be picked up at the high school offices, must be used.

Freshmen need only the regular physical exam, which is required of all new high school students and which is to be obtained from the family physician.

Steelerette tennis to begin

All Granite City North High School girls, interested in playing on the Steelerette tennis team this fall, are to report to the North tennis courts at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday, dressed for activity.

Practice sessions are scheduled each week, from morning from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m.

Girls' volleyball practice

Workout sessions will begin Wednesday, Aug. 17, for any freshman or transfer student who wants to play on the Granite City South girls' volleyball team.

According to Coach Wilma Schulze, these interested should until the opening of school. The first series of matches will be played against Waterloo High School at North on Tuesday, Sept. 13, at 4 p.m.

Any student interested in tennis but unable to make the Wednesday practice session should contact the coach, Judy Ward, at North High School.

Freshman volleyball drills

TRI-CITY POST LEADING 4-0 FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Tri-City American Legion Post 113 led 4-0 today and was battling in the first half of the eighth inning of the state championship game at Galesburg.

If it wins, once-beaten Post 113 would have to play Arlington Heights a second time today to achieve the state title.

Champion's Tri-City American Legion Post 113 was scheduled to play late this morning for the Illinois state championship in the northern Illinois community. But it'll have to win two straight games to do it.

Post 113 squared off against defending state champ Arlington Heights with a little revenge in mind. Arlington Heights knocked the Granite Cityans out of the state tourney last year in the title clash.

CHAMPION'S PLAYERS were in a familiar position after the first game of the 1977 tournament. Their backs were up against the wall.

In their first game on Friday (delayed) because of rain, they were pushed into the loser's bracket by Rock Island.

Among the boys changes in the 1977 National Football Rules, those under which games played by member schools in the Illinois High School Association (IHSA) are administered — is a change in the rules that will allow offensive players more flexibility in blocking their opponents.

A series of 23 IHSA-sponsored football rules interpretation meetings for officials registered with the Association, coaches, administrators and other school personnel will be held throughout the state during the week of Aug. 20 through Sept. 7 to provide uniform interpretations in revisions of the 1977 rules.

There are 2,000 persons registered with the IHSA as football officials; 537 football-playing schools, excluding the Chicago Public League, will begin regular season play Sept. 3.

Each weekend during the regular season, there are 300 football games played involving IHSA member schools.

Serving as football rules interpreters this fall will be Illinois Assistant Executive Secretary L. L. Astor, of Bloomington, Norman Geske of Wheeling, Charles Hillman of Hickory, Ted Search of Chester and Robert L. Wright of Champaign.

Geske and Search made major presentations at the annual rules meeting for state association interpreters from throughout the country, sponsored by the National Federation of State High School Associations in late July.

Search will speak at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 25, at Belleville East High School, 1400 N. Room 190.

Only officials who attend the 1977 rules meetings will be eligible to be selected to work games in the fourth annual football playoff series, which gets under way with eight games in each of the five divisions on Wednesday, Nov. 9. Blockers will be able to use their hands and arms when they make contact with an opponent, but only in such a manner as allowed within the framework of the new rule.

The new rule provides that: (A) the elbows of the blocker must be entirely outside the shoulders; (B) the hands must be closed or cupped with the palms not facing the opponent; (C) the forearms are approximately parallel to the ground in the same horizontal plane and extended more than 45 degrees from the body of the blocker.

In addition, the blocker's hands may not be locked, nor may the blocker swing, throw or flip his elbow or forearm so it is moving faster than his shoulder at the time of contact.

Blockers may not initiate contact with the arm or hand above the opponent's shoulder, but they may use the hand or arm to break a fall or retain balance.

Another significant change is the elimination of offside on kickoffs and/or scrimmage plays.

If, on a kickoff, the officials see a member of the kicking team over the 40-yard line and advance of the kickoff or a member of the receiving team beyond five yards of his own free-kick line (10 yards from the spot of the kickoff), the play will be blown dead immediately by the officials and the team in violation will be penalized for encroachment.

This constitutes a dead ball foul; thus, the ball never became alive. There can be no legal runback if the ball is kicked.

If, on a play from scrimmage, an offensive or defensive player jumps before the snap of the ball, the officials will blow the play dead immediately and penalize the offending team for encroachment.

Each player now is required to wear a head protector and chin strap (helmet), face guard, mouth protector, shoulder pads, hip pads, thigh pads, knee pads and shoes.

Each player now is required to wear a head protector and chin strap (helmet), face guard, mouth protector, shoulder pads, hip pads, thigh pads, knee pads and shoes.

Tri-City paving in state Legion's title contest

You'll have to forgive Babe Champion if he thinks he's been at Galesburg before. The reason is that he has been in the same situation he's in right now.

Champion's Tri-City American Legion Post 113 baseball team was scheduled to play late this morning for the Illinois state championship in the northern Illinois community. But it'll have to win two straight games to do it.

Post 113 squared off against defending state champ Arlington Heights with a little revenge in mind. Arlington Heights knocked the Granite Cityans out of the state tourney last year in the title clash.

CHAMPION'S PLAYERS were in a familiar position after the first game of the 1977 tournament. Their backs were up against the wall.

In their first game on Friday (delayed) because of rain, they were pushed into the loser's bracket by Rock Island.

Among the boys changes in the 1977 National Football Rules, those under which games played by member schools in the Illinois High School Association (IHSA) are administered — is a change in the rules that will allow offensive players more flexibility in blocking their opponents.

A series of 23 IHSA-sponsored football rules interpretation meetings for officials registered with the Association, coaches, administrators and other school personnel will be held throughout the state during the week of Aug. 20 through Sept. 7 to provide uniform interpretations in revisions of the 1977 rules.

There are 2,000 persons registered with the IHSA as football officials; 537 football-playing schools, excluding the Chicago Public League, will begin regular season play Sept. 3.

Each weekend during the regular season, there are 300 football games played involving IHSA member schools.

Serving as football rules interpreters this fall will be Illinois Assistant Executive Secretary L. L. Astor, of Bloomington, Norman Geske of Wheeling, Charles Hillman of Hickory, Ted Search of Chester and Robert L. Wright of Champaign.

Geske and Search made major presentations at the annual rules meeting for state association interpreters from throughout the country, sponsored by the National Federation of State High School Associations in late July.

Search will speak at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 25, at Belleville East High School, 1400 N. Room 190.

Only officials who attend the 1977 rules meetings will be eligible to be selected to work games in the fourth annual football playoff series, which gets under way with eight games in each of the five divisions on Wednesday, Nov. 9. Blockers will be able to use their hands and arms when they make contact with an opponent, but only in such a manner as allowed within the framework of the new rule.

The new rule provides that: (A) the elbows of the blocker must be entirely outside the shoulders; (B) the hands must be closed or cupped with the palms not facing the opponent; (C) the forearms are approximately parallel to the ground in the same horizontal plane and extended more than 45 degrees from the body of the blocker.

In addition, the blocker's hands may not be locked, nor may the blocker swing, throw or flip his elbow or forearm so it is moving faster than his shoulder at the time of contact.

Blockers may not initiate contact with the arm or hand above the opponent's shoulder, but they may use the hand or arm to break a fall or retain balance.

Another significant change is the elimination of offside on kickoffs and/or scrimmage plays.

If, on a kickoff, the officials see a member of the kicking team over the 40-yard line and advance of the kickoff or a member of the receiving team beyond five yards of his own free-kick line (10 yards from the spot of the kickoff), the play will be blown dead immediately by the officials and the team in violation will be penalized for encroachment.

This constitutes a dead ball foul; thus, the ball never became alive. There can be no legal runback if the ball is kicked.

If, on a play from scrimmage, an offensive or defensive player jumps before the snap of the ball, the officials will blow the play dead immediately and penalize the offending team for encroachment.

Nucleus is back from South's state champs

By PETE HAYES
Press-Record Sports Writer
Gene Baker is optimistic. He has reason to be.

After all, the only thing his last edition of the Granite City South soccer team did was win the 1976 Illinois State Championship. But he's also a realist.

"We lost some pretty important players through graduation," says Baker, "the least of which were" Rick Fernandez (team tri-captain and most valuable player) and Rick Becker (all region).

PERNAZANDEZ has packed his bags and is on his way to the University of Alabama-Huntsville on a soccer scholarship.

Becherer is going to Northern Illinois, where he will join another ex-warrior, Mark Brzustti, on the soccer team. But it's a new year and a new season. "We have some excellent players returning and I think we have a strong nucleus," says Baker.

"Mark Goldschmidt (area scoring leader in '76) and his brother, David, will be strong at forward."

The pre-season period will officially begin this Wednesday at 9 a.m. At that time, all boys wanting to compete on this year's team should report to Coach Baker at South High School.

The first game — when the season REALLY begins — is exactly two weeks from that date, on Wednesday, Aug. 31. South hosts Waterloo in a 5 o'clock contest in the season opener.

How about the area competition? "North will be tough, no doubt about it," Baker said. "They should be much improved."

"COLLINSVILLE lost a lot from graduation, but their soccer program is improving every year."

"Cahokia kind of sneaked up on everybody last year and won the Southwestern Conference," he added. "Another school that could be tough is Alton."

For the time being, however, Baker is more interested in finding out how tough his own team is going to be.

He'll have that chance... he'll be putting the soccer Warriors through two-a-days (10 a.m. and 3 p.m.) until school starts.

Granite City North soccer coach Bob Kehoe is building for the future. And the future could be now.

By starting an extremely young lineup last season (seven freshmen were on the squad and three saw regular action) and still coming up with 14-6 record, Kehoe has the future to look forward to as a possibly highly successful one.

"We've got very good talent," said Kehoe. "It's just a matter of being able to put it together team-wise."

Kehoe and his staff will have to put it together without the aid of All Everything defenseman Steve Seales.

While at North, Seales was named all-metropolitan, all-state and all-American. He's gone to Dartmouth's soccer team.

Also lost from last year's team were five other seniors, including Tony Carden and Bob Yount. They were the only other seniors besides Seales who saw regular action.

How does Kehoe view his team's chances this year? "I'd say our chances are pretty good," he said.

"But we're in the same boat as everybody else in this area... We have to get around St. Louis and Chicago area schools to get anywhere."

Kehoe has scheduled — as he always does — a large number of away games on his schedule for this season.

"I think that gives the boys a good amount of tough competition... not to take anything away from the schools in this area."

"Besides South being so super, there's Collinsville, Alton... the soccer program in this area gets better every year," he added.

Kehoe's charges get their chance to show what they're made of beginning this Wednesday, Aug. 17. That's when they started two-a-day practices at 8:30 every morning and again at 6 p.m. every day until school starts.

The first game for the Steelers will be Saturday, Sept. 3, at home against Quincy. That's when they begin a 22-game schedule toward what they hope is a growing future.

ATHLETIC EQUIPMENT INVENTORY of supplies being readied for junior high school boys' use is made by Joseph Fedora, right, athletic director for the Granite City District, with the assistance of his secretary, Mrs. Priscilla Veach, on Friday morning. Similar supplies used by the two high schools were inventoried earlier last week at the school district warehouse before being forwarded to the schools for distribution to the athletes this week. Some of the supplies inventoried included shoes, football uniforms and pads, soccer balls, first-aid supplies and practice equipment.

Faces 3 charges

Michael G. Baggot, 20, of 2650 Edison Ave., was charged with, disorderly conduct, leaving the scene of an accident and improperly backing of his car after a hit-and-run accident and a fight Friday afternoon.

At 3:40 p.m. Friday, police were told an auto with three people in it had backed about 200 feet into the auto of Carol Davis, 302 Wilson Park Lane, parked in front of her home at 200. Then left the scene.

Police searched for the hit-and-run vehicle, but were unable to find it. About 4 p.m., officers were called to a disturbance at 25th and Iowa streets and found Louis Gramer, bleeding from his face.

Gramer, Baggot and the two passengers in his car were questioned, and Baggot was arrested. Officers alleged his car, parked nearby, was the vehicle in the hit-and-run accident.

GIFT AT GRIDIRON GAME. At the 1977 Cardinal football Shrine benefit game, Victor Thornton (far left), past imperial potentate, and chairman of the Board of Trustees of Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children, accepts a check for $100,000 from the Falstaff Foundation, presented by Mrs. Harvey Beffa Sr. and Harvey Beffa Jr. Elmer Kempf (far right), past potentate of Moolah Temple and chairman of the board of the St. Louis Unit, Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children, also participated in the ceremony. The gift is a memorial to Harvey E. Beffa, former chairman and chief executive officer of Falstaff Brewing Corporation and past imperial potentate of the Shrine of North America. Himself crippled, Beffa labored long and hard for Shriners Hospitals and served as chairman of the Board of Trustees until his death in 1975. Beffa is also credited with the creation of the three Shrine Burns Centers, having conceived the idea and guided it through reality. In response to the family's wishes, the gift will create an on-going sponsorship of burns seminars in St. Louis, to which internationally top-ranked burns specialists will be invited, so that new techniques in burns treatment can be presented and shared by the entire medical community.

Forcing out Air National Guard might impair effectiveness of unit

In a report last week to the St. Louis Metropolitan Area Airport Authority board, Arven H. Saunders, executive director, said that proposed removal of the Missouri Air National Guard from Lambert Field poses risks of high costs to taxpayers, impairment of an important military unit and minimal gains for Lambert. Analysis of a proposal to remove the Missouri Air National Guard from Lambert Field shows that it would cost Missouri taxpayers millions of dollars and yet do nothing toward easing Lambert's basic limitations," Saunders asserted.

The relocation proposal was made in a report by the staff of the Missouri-St. Louis Metropolitan Airport Authority and was presented at that Authority's July meeting.

"This proposal was not recommended in the Parsons Master Plan which the Missouri Authority and the Lambert Commission recently submitted to the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) for review," Saunders told the Illinois-based SLMAAA.

"The flights by the Guard's jet fighters represent only a small part of Lambert's traffic load.

"Moreover, many of the takeoffs and landings occur during the periods when regular traffic at the airport is light."

"At present, the National Guard leases only about 22 acres from the airport and this will be reduced to 18 acres in 1980 in accordance with its 50-year contract.

"The Guard uses another 25 acres of contiguous federally-owned land which would be retained by the government in any event. Thus, relocation of the military operations to another airport would make no meaningful contribution toward overcoming Lambert's capacity limitations.

"The Missouri Authority has been quoted as saying the removal of the Guard from Lambert would reduce the noise problem. But the relocation would in no way be a noise cure-all."

"The increasing number of airline flights—even if there is progress in building quieter jets—will continue to use the airport by McDonnell Douglas for its supersonic jet fighters mean that Lambert will remain a high-noise operation in a heavily built-up industrial, commercial and residential area."

"For such minimal gains, the price would be high. In 1972, the Guard signed a 50-year lease with the city for use of Lambert."

"Lambert has been an Air Guard base since 1946, with the Army Air Guard unit dating back to 1923. Since securing the 1972 lease, the Guard has completed a $3 million construction program, with another $5 million program now in progress."

"There is little reason to believe that the Department of Defense—with 45 years to go on the Lambert lease—would be willing to spend from its budget to duplicate at a new location facilities that it already has at Lambert."

"On the contrary, government policy specifically requires that the local airport owner—which in the case of Lambert is the City of St. Louis—pay the bill in the event of an involuntary relocation."

"And the Guard's requirements are substantial—a 10,000 foot, heavy-duty runway, instrument capabilities, and ground support facilities. Costs, exclusive of the biggest ticket item—the runway—would probably approach $15 million."

"The principal airports in Missouri that are suitable are the commercial airport at Columbia, 125 miles west of St. Louis; Whiteman Air Force Base, near Knob Noster, about 200 miles west of St. Louis; and Richards-Gebauer Air Force Base at Kansas City."

"Removal, to such distant locations from St. Louis, undoubtedly would cause a high attrition rate from the unit which, in addition to its 375 full-time employees, has 1,200 to 1,300

"weekend warriors," including 500 part-time employees at Jefferson Barracks, most of whom live in the St. Louis area."

"The unit has traditionally earned a high proficiency rating and this is an important resource in national defense planning," Saunders emphasized.

"If the Guard were to try to relocate, there is serious question whether the aircraft noise impact—which would be a new use at the new location—would be acceptable under the environmental protection laws."

"Since the Guard was at Lambert prior to the enactment of the noise restrictions, they do not apply in the way they would should a move be attempted."

"In summary, relocating the Missouri Air National Guard would not significantly ease Lambert's capacity problems."

"The multi-million-dollar costs of the move would have to be paid by taxpayers. And any move could seriously impair the unit's ability to contribute to the national defense."

Beware of biorhythm triple days, club told

Using a special calculator, Optimist Gene Sternberg gave everyone in attendance at Thursday's Granite City Optimist meeting his biorhythm chart for the rest of his life.

According to biorhythm theory, all are governed by three internal cycles—physical, intellectual and emotional—that beginning on the date of birth and over after have a powerful influence on well-being.

It is unlikely to win scientific approval at the present time but the followers are many, according to the speaker.

Biorhythm theory began in the late 19th Century when Dr. Herman Swoboda in Vienna and Dr. William Fleiss in Berlin concluded that the physical and emotional states of human beings change rhythmically.

In the 1920s, Alfred Telser, an Austrian engineer, concluded that there also is a rhythmic change in human intellectual functioning.

Current belief is that the three cycles continue unvarying throughout an individual's lifetime.

The physical cycle is said to last 23 days, the emotional 28 days and the intellectual 33 days.

Biorhythm charts are being used heavily in sports and to some extent are entering industry, Sternberg said.

At Exxon Chemical Company's Baytown, Tex., plant, the workers have their biorhythms charted by computer, as the plant safety director wants to spot the "triple critical" days when all three of an individual's cycles are crossing the base line.

"According to biorhythm concepts, persons are most vulnerable to any danger or malfunction when their cycles are passing from one phase into another."

Optimist Maurice Dailey reminded the members that Camelot auction ticket money and prospect cards must be turned in by next Thursday's meeting.

Conviction average by Scott 96%

Attorney General William J. Scott announced Thursday that a Chicago lawyer, Truman K. Gibson Jr., 65, was sentenced to concurrent terms of one-to-three years in the penitentiary for his part in a stock fraud. Gibson was sentenced Thursday in an appearance in Rock Island County Circuit Court and also was fined $20,000.

Scott's Criminal Justice Division prosecuted Gibson on four counts of violating the Illinois Securities Act and five counts of theft. Four other men also were convicted in connection with the scheme and are yet to be sentenced.

Gibson and the others were principals and promoters of the Royal National Investment and Mortgage Corp., with offices in the Rock Island area and Chicago. The firm had raised $240,000 from 20 investors; supposedly to be used in sludge-processing research and a Bahamian housing development.

An investigation showed 95 per cent of the capital went to the promoters, and the rest to the investors. It was alleged.

The Criminal Justice Division currently has a success rate of 96 per cent convictions, with 87 per cent of the convicted being confined.

Soil erosion plan signed

Directors of the Madison County Soil and Water Conservation District were present when Governor James R. Thompson signed legislation this month to establish a comprehensive soil erosion and sediment control program under the direction of the Illinois Department of Agriculture.

"This new program will help assure the future productivity of our agricultural lands in Illinois by providing well-thought-out conservation standards applicable to all," Thompson said.

Under the legislation (HB 818), the Department of Agriculture will develop conservation standards for various soil and land uses with guidelines for implementation. The 86 soil and water conservation districts in Illinois will be required to adopt soil erosion and sediment control programs, with costs of the districts' program shared by the state and district.

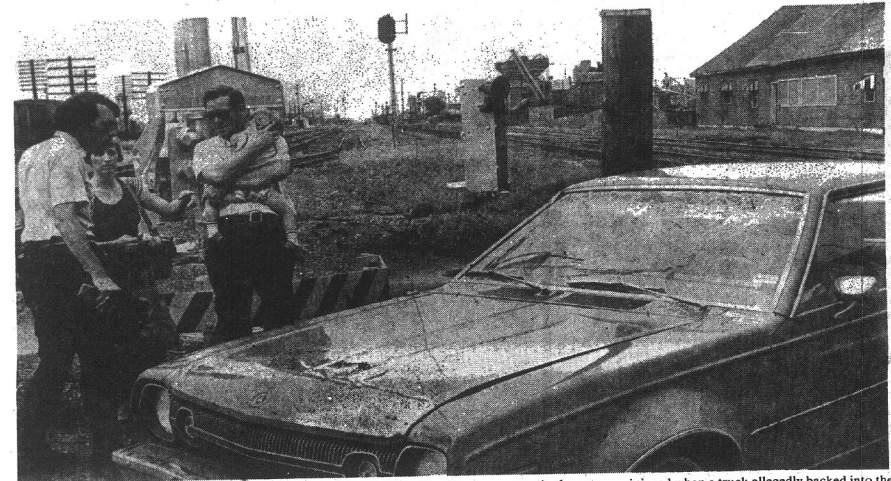

The conservation standards must be consistent with guidelines of the Coastal Zone Management program, permitting municipalities to join soil and water conservation districts.

Also, the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency may enter enforcement proceedings if water quality standards are being violated.

THE BEACH BOYS

SIR MICHAEL REDGRAVE

Browne, Redgrave, Beach Boys will conclude 1977 River Fest

A special benefit concert by the Beach Boys, three nights of "Shakespeare's People," starring Sir Michael Redgrave, and an evening with Jackson Browne are all in the final week of activities at the Mississippi River Festival, held on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Jackson Browne, opening the final week at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, is considered one of the top rock lyricists in the field. A top album musician as well as a live performer, he is responsible for "The Pretender," a recent artistic and popular success as an album.

The leader of the rock style emanating from Southern California that includes such performers as the Eagles and Linda Ronstadt, Browne has a mass appeal that in the past few years has begun to equal his always-high critical acceptance from reviewers. He has written a number of his for other artists, as well as performing many himself.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, Sir Michael Redgrave will star in the American premiere of "Shakespeare's People," a collection of the writings of Shakespeare that ranges from "Hamlet" and "King Lear" to "Midsummer Night's Dream" and "Much Ado About Nothing."

The play is structured around the four seasons, Spring opening the evening with excerpts from "Hamlet" and "As You Like It," "Romeo and Juliet" and "Twelfth Night." Similar excerpts follow for Summer, Autumn and Winter, with Prospero renouncing his art in "The Tempest," closing the curtain. The performance begins each night at 8:30 at the Festival site, with the premiere on Thursday expected to be performed before a variety of theatrical notables from on and off Broadway.

The 1977 River Festival season closes Sunday, Aug. 21, with a special benefit performance by The Beach Boys at 8:30 p.m.

A top international rock group since the early '60s, The Beach Boys began with surfing and hot rod music, graduated to more complex sounds like "Good Vibrations" and their "Pet Sounds" album, and became by the early 1970s one of the most influential groups in the field.

A long list of single and album hits begins with "Surferin' Safari" and closes with the latest album, "The Beach Boys Love You." Along the way are "I Get Around," "California Girls," "Wouldn't It Be Nice," "Darlin'," "Heroes and Villains," "Rock and Roll Music" and 49 more. Brian Wilson, writer and leader for the group, is scheduled to be with the group at the local performance.

Churches and scouting cooperating to help train future leaders

"A Scout is Reverent" is the 12th point of the Scout Law. And a dozen chaplains general at the 1977 National Scout Jamboree at Moraine State Park, Pa., last week unanimously agreed that it's probably the most important point of all.

"The Boy Scouts of America maintains that no boy can grow into the best kind of citizen without recognizing his obligation to God," the Charter and Bylaws of the Boy Scouts of America say.

"If scouting dropped the 12th point of the Scout Law, the churches would just drop out of scouting," Jewish Chaplain Rabbi Gilbert Kollin of New York said.

"The churches are not doing scouting a favor by sponsoring a program," explained Islamic Chaplain Charles K. Alawan of West Bloomfield, Mich. "We are utilizing that scout program as a resource to advance our youth objectives and goals."

"Religion is an essential part of scouting, not a byproduct of scouting," said professional scoutmaster and associate of chaplain services at the jamboree, Joseph P. Kessler of North Brunswick, N. J.

"Religion is here to stay as a part of scouting," Chaplain Services Director Gene H. Sternberg, Granite City, contractor and scouting volunteer, said. "If the churches stopped being partners with the BSA, more than half our units would go out of existence."

"If you take the religious aspect out of scouting, it becomes nothing more than fun and games, and not the character-building program that it should be," Sternberg commented.

"The church-sponsored troop is an extension of the church's youth ministry," Saints (RLDS) Chaplain Rev. Robert E. Taylor of Mt. Pleasant, Mich., said.

The chaplains general emphasized the interdenominational — as opposed to non-denominational — aspect of scouting.

"When many scout troops gather together at a regional camporee or at a national jamboree such as this one, they become aware of the many different religions which are in attendance," Rabbi Kollin said.

"They get a feeling of a larger brotherhood which transcends their own denomination."

In certain areas, such as those where there is a large concentration of a particular ethnic group, a boy's parents might encourage him to join a troop sponsored by his own particular faith.

But when a large number of scout units meet at a camporee or jamboree, the boys interact with others of different faiths they might not otherwise meet.

"We try to transcend the differences between faiths with an open mind and become aware that we are interdependent," Buddhist Chaplain Rev. Harold Oda of Denver, Colo., explained.

"This is where we put our emphasis — not on being competitive but on being compassionate."

One thing the Mormon church has appreciated about the scouting organization is that it accepts differences in religious practices," said Mormon Chaplain Dr. John M. Bevan of Salt Lake City, Utah.

CHAPLAINS GENERAL at the ninth National Scout Jamboree are (front row, from left): the Rev. LeRoy Kettinger, Church Commission; G. Edward Garhart, Christian Science; the Rev. Harold Oda, Buddhist; Rabbi Gilbert Killin, Jewish; the Rev. Richard P. LaRoque, Roman Catholic; and Joseph P. Kessler, associate, Chaplain Services. Back row:

Donald Flanders, chairman of National Relationships Committee, Boy Scouts of America; the Rev. Robert L. Conrad, Lutheran; Dr. John M. Bevan, Mormon; the Rev. Charles P. Sarelis, Eastern Orthodox; Charles K. Alawan, Islamic; the Rev. Robert E. Taylor, Saints (RLDS); and Gene Sternberg of Granite City, director, Chaplain Services.

"For example," he continued, "in many areas of the United States where the Mormon-sponsored troops are a minority, the troop might not want to go to a local council camp on a Sunday, whereas the normal routine is to have a Sunday camping day."

"They understand our feelings (about not camping on the Sabbath) and permit us to come to camp from Monday through Saturday."

He added that because the jamboree extends for a longer period of time, Mormon chaplains are present to administer the Sunday services.

"But when the camps are close by, we do like to have the boys home on Sunday," he said.

Other practices unique to a particular faith are also accommodated in the general scout program.

For example, both Rabbi Kollin, Jewish, and Alawan, Islamic, pointed out that the jamboree food service had made a special effort to accommodate their particular dietary preferences, even though it meant some inconvenience in providing a variety of different food types.

"The jamboree also makes an effort to accommodate those of our religion," Christian Science Chaplain G. Edward Garhart of Pittsburgh, Pa., said. "Those who do not choose to have normal medical help even at a jamboree can turn to a Christian Science practitioner."

"The scouting program really recognizes individual differences and needs, and tries to take care of these without making the individual feel any sense of being different."

He pointed out that the jamboree also recognizes the particular needs of his religion by providing exemptions from medical examination requirements.

Many troops, even though they are sponsored by one particular denomination, are open to boys of any other faith.

No effort is made to convert a boy belonging to another church to that of the sponsoring church.

For example, the troop chaplain will frequently refer a boy of a different faith to a chaplain or clergyman of his own faith so that he can work on the religious award which his church sponsors.

"There are 21 different religious emblems that can be worn on a scout uniform," Church Commission Chaplain Rev. LeRoy Kettinger of Columbus, Ohio, noted.

The requirements for each emblem are established by the church which issues it, not by the Boy Scouts. The chaplains also emphasized how the partnership between the churches and scouting helps train the future leaders of America.

"When we bring a boy into scouting in a church-related troop, we attempt to instill leadership qualities in him and we give him the chance to demonstrate them in troop life and activities," Dr. Bevan said.

"I know of one troop in Harrisburg that had 10 boys go through it who are now priests," Catholic Chaplain Rev. Richard P. LaRoque of Gales Ferry, Conn., said.

"A man who is now a professional scoutmaster and a council executive told me that he had no faith and belonged to no church until he joined a troop as a boy," Rev. Kettinger said.

"Through that troop's scoutmaster, he was influenced to attend Sunday school and church and he is now an active churchman and a scoutmaster."

"I think we would all agree," Sternberg concluded, "that when a man reaches his adulthood, he is the sum of the experiences he had as a boy."

"We think the church and the Boy Scouts combined are about the best dogged resources available for a boy to become a productive adult."

The two resources always have been and always will be partners, the chaplains emphasized.

As Alawan expressed it, "Scouting without religion or God or a Supreme Being would not be scouting at all. It would have no meaning."

MR. AND MRS. BOBBY PENDLETON. They were married in an afternoon ceremony the Calvary Baptist Church, Hannibal, Mo. The bride is formerly Miss Ramona Denice Warren, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Warren, 203 Summit, Hannibal, formerly of Granite City.

Ramona Warren marries Bobby Louis Pendleton

An out-of-town wedding of interest here was that of Miss Ramona Denice Warren, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Warren, 203 Summit, Hannibal, Mo., formerly of Granite City, and Bobby Louis Pendleton Jr., a son of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Pendleton of Dixon, Mo., on July 30, at the Calvary Baptist Church in Hannibal.

The Rev. Charles Shumaker officiated at a double ring ceremony at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Given in marriage by her father, the former Miss Warren wore a long white satin gown featuring a high standing V-designed neckline and long lace sleeves. The semi full skirt fell softly into a chapel train.

She chose a headpiece trimmed with white silk daisies to secure a chapel length veil of bridal illusion and she held a bouquet of silk white daisies and blue daffodils. Her gown and veil were fashioned by her father.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Claudia Haskin a sister of the bride, and attendants were Barbara Thomure and Nancy Branham. Angela Branham served as the flower girl.

They selected floor length dresses in pastel hues complemented with white picture hats accented with daisies and ribbons to match their attire.

Each attendant carried a bouquet of daisies and baby's breath.

Clay Warren and Steve Denton served as candlelighters and ushers.

The groom chose Michael Warren as his best man. Michael Humphrey, Michael Haskins were groomsmen and Donney Shumaker was the ringbearer.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall after the service.

The bride is a senior student at Hannibal High School. Her husband is a 1975 graduate of Dixon High School and is attending Hannibal Le Grange College. He also works for William Underwood Co.

NEW MISSOURI LEGAL SCHOOL NOT ACCREDITED Potential students at the new Missouri School of Law, a night school, 111 S. Bemiston Ave., Clayton, were warned Friday by the Better Business Bureau serving Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois that a bachelor of law or doctor of jurisprudence degree awarded by the school does not mean that its graduates will be eligible to sit for the Missouri Bar examination. It has not been accredited.

The BBB said it is concerned because the school's advertising does not indicate this limitation, although the school's catalog does make the information available to potential students.

Citizens favor TV station acquisition

WOKR-TV (Channel 13) in Rochester, New York, is expected to be assigned to a new owner under the terms of an historic agreement signed last week by the proposed purchaser and the two citizen groups that have held up WOKR's license renewal for five and a half years.

Post Corporation, a diversified newspaper publisher and broadcast station owner based in Appleton, Wis., recently filed an application with the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to purchase the station for almost $16,000,000.

Petitions to deny WOKR's license renewal had been filed with the FCC by Action For a Better Community, Inc. (ABC) and other groups in 1972, and by the Rochester Black Media Coalition (RBMC) in 1975.

The agreement between Post Corp. and the citizens' groups, follows more than five years of litigation between the present owners and RBMC and ABC.

Among provisions of the agreement between Post and the two groups are the following:

1. The station will, during the license period, effectuate two of the following program policies:
- a. WOKR will carry four prime time (6-11 p.m.), 30-minute documentary programs per year dealing with the ascertained needs of the minority population of the area.
- b. WOKR will produce weekly, local, prime time programs dealing with the activities of the Rochester area, addressing particularly the needs of the City of Rochester.
- c. Black Dimensions, a program dealing with minority needs, will be moved to prime time, in lieu of its present scheduling.
2. WOKR will carry a substantial number of public service announcements dealing with the needs of the minority community.
3. WOKR will carry a monthly feature under the general title "Ask The Manager" during the AM Rochester program which will permit viewers to ask questions of station personnel.

EMPLOYMENT:

The station will publicize all openings for positions at the station to minority and women's organizations, and will institute a policy under which any persons hired for the top positions at the station will meet with community groups to learn of their problems and needs.

ASSISTANCE TO PROSPECTIVE MINORITY BROADCASTERS:

The station will endow a scholarship of $30,000 for the purpose of administering a scholarship fund for minority and disadvantaged students to be administered by the RBMC.

In addition, the station will provide for a period of five years an annual $2,500 grant to Howard University for its communications conferences.

COMMUNITY RELATIONS:

Post will create a position of director of community affairs whose function will be to bring the station closer to community organizations.

RBMC and station management will meet three times a year to review and discuss the station's programming under this agreement.

RBMC Chairman Charles Hatcher termed the agreement "perhaps the soundest, most progressive document ever to be signed by a citizen group and a broadcaster."

RBMC takes great pleasure in welcoming Post Corporation to Rochester to begin a new era of progressive, responsive broadcasting.

"We chose conciliation with Post over further litigation because it was clear to us that these people really believe in the principle of community access to the airwaves, which is what we've been fighting for all along."

V. I. Minahan, president of Post, emphasized that Post was pleased to be signing a document which resolves several long-standing areas of dispute on which reasonable men and women have differed since WOKR went on the air in 1962.

He continued, "We look forward to being good citizens in a good community."

"The negotiations which led to this agreement were initiated as part of our ascertaining of community needs, when it became apparent to us and the leadership of citizens' organizations that we both need each other in order to succeed."

"I personally want to commend Mr. Hatcher and Mr. McCuller for their roles in this agreement."

James McCuller, executive director of ABC, Inc., who spearheaded the original 1972 challenge to WOKR's license, stated, "Post seems to be a new breed of broadcaster. These are open, honest, progressive folk; among the finest we've ever met in the industry."

"Of course, they're businessmen, they're here to operate the station as a successful business."

"What we tried to do was come up with a package which opens the doors of the station to new voices, new ideas and new blood while allowing the station to operate unhampered as a successful business concern."

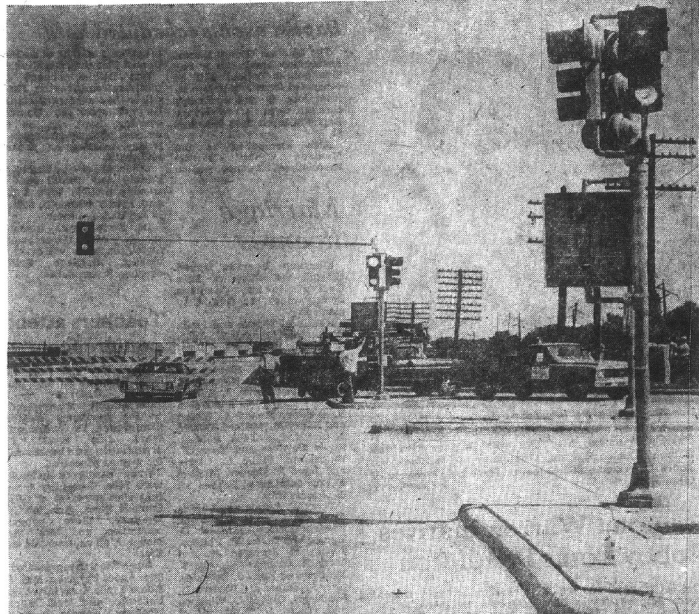

In a joint declaration, McCuller and Hatcher, speaking for their respective organizations, addressed their comments to the minority community:

"This is a new day now. We strongly urge all citizens of Rochester, black and white, rich and poor, to help Post Corporation make Channel 13 succeed."

"It is time to heal these wounds from six years of warfare. All of us should offer to the station, beginning immediately, our full cooperation, understanding and friendship."

"We should feel like this is our station because, in a sense, it is. We have here one of those rare and beautiful occasions where someone comes along and makes possible a solution which makes everybody happy."

"The fact that we are here today proves that perseverance, keeping the faith, and keeping an open mind are the true ingredients of success. The war is over; all of us, both citizens and broadcasters, have won."

TRAFFIC LIGHTS ARE CHECKED Friday afternoon at Bissell Avenue and Federal Aid Route 151 at the south gate of the Granite City Army Installation prior to the Route 151 extension's opening today. Electricians alleviated minor problems in the semi-automatic lighting system, which includes automatic switching to red when trains approach the Bissell crossing on tracks that parallel the new highway.

Ruling okays raise for state employees

Attorney General William J. Scott advised Comptroller Michael J. Bakalis on Friday that the pay plan amendment approved by Governor James R. Thompson, granting pay increases to certain qualified state employees to match increases granted to those covered by a union-negotiated agreement, is legally proper.

Scott said this means the governor's pay plan thus complies with statutory requirements that "the same schedule of pay may be applied to all positions in the same class" and insures that the integrity of the pay plan is preserved. The ruling permits the raises to go into effect.

Scott also advised that his examination of the question does not support Bakalis' objections that the pay plan offers pay for services already performed, an act that would be prohibited by state law.

The attorney general noted that the plan calls for a payment of $100 to all affected employees on the payroll on July 1, even though they had no prior service.

Scott noted, also, that another provision to pay five per cent payments and step increase payments, conditioned on the fact that employees had rendered a certain period of service prior to June 30 or July 1, was proper.

Surveillance thwarts thieves at used car lot

After four cars on the Crismon Motor Co. used car lot at 2805 E. 23rd St. were tampered with Wednesday night, an employee agreed to stay on the premises during the night hours Wednesday and he halted the attempted theft of two tires from one of the cars at 11 p.m. Thursday.

Phillip Catlett said he saw two youths in dark clothing attempting to steal the left rear tire of a car on the lot.

When Catlett opened an office door, the youths fled south, leaving a hydraulic jack and handle, a lug wrench, a screwdriver and a black cap in the lot. A concrete block was near the auto.

One who fled was described as in his early 20s, about 6 feet, 1 inch tall, weighing about 150 pounds and having long blond hair and a beard.

The other was about 17 or 18 years old, six feet tall, weighing about 150 pounds and having short black hair.

On Wednesday evening, in dashboard combination stereo and radio units were stolen from two cars on the lot and an attempt was made to remove a similar unit from another auto.

The two rear tires were removed from a fourth car and the wheels were left on concrete blocks.

Parked trucks looted

Four tractor-trailer cabs were broken into behind the Illini Motel, 1100 Niedringhaus Ave., and citizens' hand radios were stolen from each, it was discovered Thursday.

A CB radio also was taken from the tractor cab of Raymond Hash, 2302 Benton St., parked at his home at about the same time.

In all five instances, a vent window was pried open with a screwdriver or small pry bar, and entry was gained by reaching through the vent to unlock the door.

Behind the Illini, a CB radio and a speaker were taken from the tractor of Dan Leggett, Leonard, Tex., and the glove compartment was forced open. A $150-value CB was taken from the truck of Marvin Stuart, Newport, Ark., and a $250 CB unit was taken from the truck of Harry Nimtz, Muskegon, Wis.

A $150 CB radio, a $200 camera lens, a $50 check and a .22 caliber pistol were taken from the truck of Floyd Houck, Bethlehem, Pa., also behind the Illini Motel.

THEFT FROM CAMPER

A tool box containing $600 worth of mechanic's tools and a $15 electric drill were stolen from the pickup truck camper of Chester Stafford, 1750 Chestnut St., he reported at 7:40 p.m. Friday. The rear window of the camper was forced open.

Chase auto; 2 arrested

Police, stopped in their squad car in the 900 block of Niedringhaus Avenue, saw a car with Missouri license plates pass the officers at a high rate of speed westbound on Missouri Avenue.

Using red lights and a siren, the officers alerted chasing the car on Niedringhaus Avenue and Route 151 in speeds in excess of 100 miles-per-hour before stopping it on Interstate 270 a half-mile west of the Chain of Rocks Canal Bridge. Beer was allegedly found in the auto.

The driver, Gregory R. Smith, 21, Florissant, Mo., was charged with speeding, attempting to elude police, three stop sign violations and illegal transportation of alcohol.

A passenger, David Roosen, 21, Florissant, was charged with illegal possession of alcohol in an auto.

1860s coverup conspiracy worse than that of 1970s?

By ROBERT ESTILL
Press-Record

Washington Bureau
Was there a 19th Century cover-up of plotters of Abraham Lincoln's assassination which will "Make Waterbury look like kindergarten plotting?"

That's the contention of Sunn Classic Pictures, a firm with offices in Salt Lake City, Utah, and Los Angeles, Calif.

The firm specializes in "documentaries," including a recent film on Noah's ark and such epics as "The Life and Times of Grizzly Adams," "The Mysterious Monsters," and "The Amazing World of Psychic Phenomena."

The latest film from Sunn Classics, "The Lincoln Conspiracy," offers enough woe, tangles, plots and conspiracies to please Niccolò Machiavelli.

The film suggests:—There were in at least four groups involved in plots to kill or kidnap Lincoln.

—Congressional radicals, New York financiers, Northern cotton speculators and Confederate leaders in Carolina.

—The conspirators included John M. Stanton, Lincoln's secretary of war, and Lafayette Baker, who was in charge of the National Detection Police, an agency formed during the Civil War to perform espionage.

—Stanton, displeased with unsuccessful kidnap efforts by John Wilkes Booth, decided to replace Booth with James W. Boyd, a Confederate captain.

—Booth changed his plans from kidnap to murder and killed Lincoln while Boyd was scheming to kidnap Lincoln.

—Booth was taken to an island in Chesapeake Bay and killed them.

—Boyd, mistaken for Booth, was killed at the Garrett farm in Virginia; and the War Department covered up its error, while Booth escaped to West Virginia and later to Europe.

William C. Davis does not buy it.

Davis is an author, historian and editor of Civil War Times Illustrated, a Harrisburg, Pa.-based periodical.

He also told under contract to Doubleday Publishing to write a book on the assassination of Lincoln.

"I have not seen anything to lead me to believe the conspiracy to assassinate Lincoln went any farther than those who were arrested and tried," Davis told the Press-Record bureau.

Davis said his own speculation is that if Stanton or anyone else in the War Department was aware of a plot to kidnap Lincoln, they were not keeping tabs on it as co-conspirators. He believes they would have been watching in hope the planners at the bottom would lead them to the top.

He notes that the conspiracy took place at the end of the war when Stanton and others were trying to get damning evidence on Jefferson Davis, the president of the Confederacy.

Davis disputes both the authenticity of documents used by Sunn Classic and their application in the film-making.

One of the prime pieces of evidence cited by Sunn is 18 missing pages from Booth's "Diary"—actually an appointment book, according to Davis.

The pages were found by Joseph Lynch of Worthington, Mass., among the possessions of Stanton's heirs.

The heirs did not want to sell the diary, and Lynch sold the supposed diary made from his tape-recorded descriptions.

Davis said the key point is that only the dealer has ever seen the pages.

"Until some unimpeachable authority, such as the Library of Congress, authenticates the original pages, basing any historical claims on what is found in the transcript is irresponsible," Davis says in an editorial in the August issue of Civil War Times Illustrated.

He cites other discrepancies and puzzlers, such as the likelihood of Boyd being mistaken for Booth.

Booth was 26, 5-8 tall, and had black hair and brown eyes. Boyd was 42, 6-2 tall, and had gray hair and blue eyes, according to Davis.

There's also the matter of Boyd's supposed plot to kidnap Lincoln, Johnson and Seward. The causes behind the costs are explained by area firms as being mathematical.

"Claim costs have shot up so high they have exceeded the amounts anticipated by the insurance companies when rates were established."

Insurance is one of the few businesses which has to establish its prices in the present when a major part of its costs occur in the future, agents point out.

As an example of this problem, in 1975 auto insurance claims and expenses for the industry exceeded premiums by $2.3 billion.

Other major areas like health insurance have also been hit by heavy losses.

Inflation is called a major part of the problem. Runaway inflation "knocked the props from under predictability," the heart of insurance pricing.

Insurance, in the most simple terms, pays one's bills for covered losses. Those bills have gone up sharply, just as has happened with bills families pay directly. But a special factor operates in some areas covered by insurance: medical care, auto repairs, home repairs and labor.

These costs have risen faster than the general rise in the cost of living, insurance companies and agencies say.

Another factor is described as social attitudes—the idea of some that insurance should pay for all losses whether covered by the policy or not.

Insurers say that, all too often, the expectation of recovery exceeds the realities of reasonable coverage.

"This is blamed in part on the prevailing belief that an insurance company pays for losses from some far-off, impersonal and inexhaustible fund of dollars to be tapped at will," one authority comments.

"This attitude helps account for a recent phenomenon of behavior referred to as social inflation."

"Though somewhat elusive, the term most often is used to indicate expecting or demanding more from social institutions than they were created to deliver. It can mean insisting on many more material benefits from life than one is willing to work for. It can be seen in the popular urge to sue."

"To the insurance industry, social inflation usually is taken to mean the tendency of some courts and juries to satisfy the expectations of some alleged victims through liberal awards."

"The aspect of social inflation has raised the cost of insurance in many areas—auto, health care, malpractice coverage and a wide range of business insurance."

"And these costs are borne by the consumer in the form of higher prices, not just for insurance, but for all the goods and services our society produces."

"As an insurance company, we don't like the high cost of insurance anymore than you do, and we share the desire to do something about it. We are examining the causes of rising insurance costs and considering what remedies are available."

'Social inflation' an insurance cost prod

Many people today say they are concerned about skyrocketing insurance costs. The causes behind the costs are explained by area firms as being mathematical.

Order of Arrow plans election at conclave

The election of officers of the Cahokia Lodge, Order of the Arrow, will be held at the group's annual Fall Conclave, Sept. 9, 10 and 11, at Camp Sunken near Potomac, Mo.

The Order of the Arrow is a national brotherhood of Scout honor campers within the Boy Scouts of America.

The Cahokia Lodge with a membership of approximately 350 Scouts, Explorers and adults encompasses the southern half of Madison County and all of Bond County.

Lodge officers to be elected are chief, vice-chief, secretary and treasurer.

The lodge is subdivided into chapters. Chapter officers also will be elected.

Members must make reservations at the highest Service Center, 2016 Delmar Ave., by Tuesday, Sept. 6.

Ordal members, the first level of membership, who have continued to be of service to others and their individual Scout units, may be elevated to the second level of membership known as Brotherhood.

Four members of the lodge will be elevated to the highest honor in the Arrow known as Vigil membership.

A special private breakfast of Vigil members will be held Saturday, Sept. 10, to welcome the new Vigil members.

Pat Potter is the chairman of the fall conclave. Randy Affolter is lodge chief and John R. Hooks is the adviser to the lodge.

Two young men were injured when their auto struck a utility pole at the curve near the 22nd Street railroad crossing Thursday.

The driver of the auto, Jessie Jim Swift, 25, of 2135 Benton St., was charged with reckless driving and driving while his license was suspended.

Witnesses alleged Swift's auto was westbound at a high rate of speed and forced two eastbound autos off the roadway before striking the post on the north side of the street.

He and a passenger in his car, Donald Coryell, 19, of 1010 Twenty-third St., were taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital, where Coryell was admitted with a broken left foot and abrasions to his left hand. He also struck his head.

Swift suffered a large cut behind his left ear and abrasions to his chest, both legs and a hand. He declined x-rays.

Sr. Citizens tour Missouri sites

The downpour of rain last week did not stop 80 members of the Granite City Chapter 1346 of the American Association of Retired Persons as they boarded two buses for an all day outing in Missouri.

Due to the rain, though the group had to shorten their first stop and continued to Ft. River where they enjoyed lunch. At the Millstream Gardens the sun was shining bright and hot and they toured the pleasant area, according to Mrs. Elma M. Hoover, president of the organization.

She added, "tractor pulled wagons made an hour trip down along the St. Francois River and into the Shut-In country with its huge boulders and the river splashing between and around them. The old village there had typical turn of the century buildings and equipment."

Mrs. Hoover announced the next membership meeting will be Wednesday, Sept. 14, at 7 p.m. in Anchorage Recreation Hall, and the Rhythm Band will entertain.

Several members are planning to attend the regional conference to be held in Cincinnati, Ohio, in September, she said. There are no restrictions

SHOTGUN DISPLAYED

A loser in an arm-wrestling match about 1 a.m. Saturday at the Shanty 66 Tavern, 1415 Fifth St., Madison, returned about 1:25 a.m. Saturday and displayed a shotgun, customers reported. No shots were fired and no one was hurt, they said. Officers searched the area for the man but were unable to locate him.

and any member is welcome to attend the regional conference. Chapter members will participate in the nutrition anniversary at the Granite City Township Center, 1919 Edison Ave., on Aug. 31, where the band will entertain, the president noted.

SPECIAL OLYMPICS SUPPORT in the form of a check — representing the money raised by Granite City firemen and ambulance personnel during a recent car wash — is presented to Mary Ruth Snelson, third from left, of the Council for Exceptional Children by Ed McGovern, second from left, representing Local 253 of the Firefighters. On hand for the presentation are Fire Chief Don Parente, far left, Mark St. Ivany, far right, also of the Council, and Bobby Gage, fourth from left, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gage, who has participated in the local and state levels of competition. Bobby won a gold medal in the softball throw and earned a bronze medal in the 50-yard dash, both in state-level competition. A total of $580 was donated to the Council by the firemen.

Hearing on appeal by sanitary sewer tax foes

The validity of a suit which is halting construction of sanitary sewers in Nameoki, Chouteau and Venice townships is to be tested during a hearing Wednesday morning in the Illinois Appellate Court at Mount Vernon.

A three-judge panel will hear oral arguments by M. Joseph Hill, attorney for Mrs. Ruth Andrews, George Dyckman and others opposing the sewer program, and Harry E. Hartman, attorney for the Madison County special sewer committee which is planning for the sewer construction.

Among issues to be considered by the court are the constitutionality of special legislation which allows special service areas to be created unless 51 per cent of homeowners and 51 per cent of registered voters in the district sign petitions opposing its creation.

The county plans to finance the local share of the construction cost by selling general obligation bonds and repaying them through real estate property taxes in the special service area served by the sewers. Nearly three-fourths of the cost is to be paid from state and federal grants.

The program was upheld in Madison County Circuit Court, leading to the appeal being filed by opponents of the financial procedure.

River cargo volume down

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has just released tabulation of cargo shipped through the Chain of Rocks Locks on the Chain of Rocks Canal in May.

The report noted a total of 6,907,029 tons of cargo passed through the locks in May, bringing the total for the first five months of the year to 22,441,477 tons. The total is down from the 25,949,111 tons in the first five months of 1976.

May cargo downstream totaled 4,293,120, including 3,478,600 tons of grain. Upstream cargo totaled 2,613,909, which included 791,700 tons of coal.

A total of 8,703 vessels passed through the locks in May, bringing the total for the first five months to 28,253 vessels. The total is lower than the 22,524 vessels locked through during the same period of 1976.

There were 1,086 lockages in May and 3,724 during the first five months of this year compared to 3,205 in the same period of last year. There were 1,293 lockages in May 1976.

Witness theft of brake shoes

Four youths were seen loading a large number of used brake shoes from the rear of Bennett Auto Supply, 2219 Madison Ave., into the rear of their late-model maroon station wagon at 11:55 p.m. Saturday, but the car left the scene before police could get to the scene.

All were of medium build, 18 to 19 years old, and had dark clothing, the witness said. They cut a hole in the chain-link fence with bolt cutters and one entered the yard.

A youth with blond hair over his ears loaded the shoes into large sacks and handed them to a youth with dark hair who placed the bags through the hole in the fence.

Another youth with dark hair loaded the bags in the rear of the station wagon as a fourth youth, who also had dark hair, waited behind the car's steering wheel.

It is not known how many used brake shoes were taken.

Report provides basis for coordinated action to curb crime

Although by its nature highly controversial, the report disclosed here Thursday — an analysis of Madison County law enforcement — appears to be relatively objective and perceptive. Perhaps not all of its recommendations are needed or practical. But if some of them were implemented, undoubtedly there would be an improvement in the county's efforts to control crime and punish wrongdoers.

"Throwing more money at a problem" does not always provide solutions, but we would guess that greater spending — if accompanied by changes in certain attitudes and procedures — could make a world of difference.

Proposals that seem to have special relevance need to be given prompt attention and action by responsible officials and the public. The detailed evaluation by Cresap, McCormick and Paget for the Southwest Illinois Law Enforcement Commission, while probably angering some, seems well-intentioned. It notes that varied factors have played a part in hampering some of the staffs, who are given generally high marks for effort.

Because "we're all in this together" — any citizen is a potential crime victim — it behooves all to review the findings, put aside personal or partisan feelings, and do what they can to bring about improvements.

Competition can aid county in obtaining best bid proposals

Alton Telegraph — Just as a seven-year monopoly of maintenance Madison County Sheriff's Office vehicles was about to be challenged, the county raised new obstacles in the way last week.

Some of the obstacles consisted of minor technicalities largely subject to interpretation and additional explanation. The long-experienced bidder, "Bo" Beuckman Ford of Collinsville, apparently came through the bidding process without a hitch.

Ferguson Truck & Turbo Builders of South Roxana underbid Beuckman, but apparently misinterpreted a few of the less clear specifications.

Illinois taxpayers treated favorably during spring session

Comment by Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois — A final analysis of the 1977 spring session of the Illinois General Assembly shows that overall the Illinois taxpayer was treated favorably. There was no increase in the income tax nor any of the other common statewide taxes such as those on motor fuel, cigarettes, liquor or sales.

The General Assembly membership passed 14 bills authorizing increases in property tax rates. The bills, which now await the governor's action, represent one-third of the property tax rate increase bills which were introduced. The major recipients of these increases will be special districts in the City of Chicago and libraries.

The bills in brief:
S.B. 203 — .25 for county corporate fund, excludes Cook County.
S.B. 807 — .03 for forest preserve districts, excludes Cook County.
S.B. 1036 — .50 for street light district, direct referendum required.

H.B. 269 — .50 for township cemeteries, direct referendum required.
H.B. 602 — .02 for libraries.
H.B. 603 — .05 for four years, authorizes separate levy for library working cash fund.

H.B. 605 — .05 for libraries; plus .02 increase in levy above that approved by election.
H.B. 675 — .05 for ambulance service within fire protection districts.

H.B. 1431 — .01 in 1977; .03 in 1978, .06 in 1979 and thereafter for Chicago Metropolitan Sanitary District.

Accomplishments by the handicapped

To the Editor: I would like to publicly thank all those who volunteered their time and effort in teaching the physically handicapped swim program sponsored by the American Red Cross, Tri-City Chapter.

We had a wonderful group of volunteers who gave freely of their time. Those who made the program a huge success were Jennifer Boone, Glenda Calvin, Dora Darnell, James Down, Dawn Duffin, Emmie Early, Kay Plake, Becky Gaines, Marian Hartung, Margie Hefflin, Phyllis Hensley, Terry Hunter.

Mary Jesse, Ron Laboray, Robert Lutes, Mark McAmish, Pat McAmish, Cheryl Rushing, Becky Smith, Amy Stephens, Lee Suarez, Liz Syme, June Van Horn, Theresa Van Horn, Linda Walsh, Elva Weiss, Beth

Wilkins, George Wilkins, Lois Winter and Edith Woods.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger M. Bowler generously contributed their pool and facilities for the program.

It is very gratifying to see the proud look of accomplishment on the faces of the handicapped students as they master water skills.

Concission — To reduce crime, capture the criminals and let them behind bars

(Southwestern Illinois Law Enforcement Commission)
Since 1969, $7.2 million in federal and state grants awarded by the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission have been spent in the SILEC area. These grant programs have been applied to different components of the criminal justice system as follows:

	Percentage
Police	54.4
Prosecution	2.2
Defense	1.9
Courts	3.6
Detention-corrections	8.1
Probation	4.6
Juvenile-youth	10.5
Planning	8.1
Other	6.9

The grant programs were distributed as follows:

	Percentage
City of East St. Louis	22.9
St. Clair County (excluding East St. Louis)	21.6
Madison County	15.3
Countywide services (Bond, Monroe, Randolph, Washington and Clinton)	4.9
Area-wide programs	9.4

The basic purposes of the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968 (as amended), which led to the creation of SILEC and ILEC, are to:

1. Strengthen the administration of justice.

2. Control and reduce crime.

According to all available evidence, SILEC is among the most effective regional criminal justice planning agencies in the state.

The SILEC Board and staff have focused on providing service to the region and have kept overhead remarkably low.

The preponderance of the grant program SILEC has been able to influence has been regarded as well-conceived and developed.

SILEC virtually pioneered in bringing attention to the needs of the courts and to components of the criminal justice system other than the police, and has operated several regionally oriented programs such as MEGSI (Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwest Illinois) and a mobile in-service training program for law enforcement officers.

Because the region's crime problems are concentrated in the urbanized counties of St. Clair and Madison, St. Clair County has a higher proportion of crimes against persons, while Madison County has a higher proportion of crimes against property.

Most of the grant programs have been awarded to these counties. St. Clair County, which has been awarded 21 per cent of the population of St. Clair County, had in 1975 about 58 per cent of the reported felony crimes in the county and has for some time suffered an extraordinarily high crime rate.

The 1974 index crime data show East St. Louis to have the highest crime rate in Illinois in cities over 25,000 and almost 2 1/2 times the index crime rate of the City of Chicago.

The city's seeming inability to cope with this problem and with other problems of urban decay led to the formation of the city and its problems.

Observers in the region tend to believe that the city is having funneled into the city resources that do not appear to have had any appreciable impact on improving the situation — and that are not seen to bear promise for success in the absence of fundamental changes in the manner in which the city is governed and administered.

The cliché, "The city is the problem," is heard often in relation to this situation.

Many of the grant programs aimed at improving the administration of justice have addressed areas of undisturbed need.

Improvements in communications systems, improving data processing systems, and providing items of equipment to the law enforcement agencies might otherwise not have.

But the fact is there is no evidence that expenditure of grant monies in the region has had any appreciable impact on reducing crime.

To the contrary, over these years crime has increased substantially, although the increase has been leveling off in 1976, as is the case nationally.

A body of thought holds that crime is largely a result of economic and social deprivation, and that little headway can be made in reducing crime unless action is taken to reduce poverty and social ills, and that poverty must be eliminated before crime can be reduced.

Programs for economic and social betterment are often seen as effective crime prevention vehicles, and some grant programs are based on this premise.

Experience in the United States during the Great Depression, when crime rates were low, tends to belie this theory.

Current experience includes widespread poverty. Some have established very low levels of tolerance for crime, and the frighteningly severe punishment to convicted criminals, but this also tends to belie the theory.

Evidence suggests that the level of risk of apprehension and punishment has a decided impact on the incidence of crime.

When the "risk factor" — the probability that a person who commits a serious crime will be apprehended and punished by incarceration — is low, the criminally-inclined can commit crime with virtually impunity.

Criminals, particularly career criminals, have little difficulty measuring the degree of risk they are taking.

A central finding of this evaluation is that ILEC and SILEC programs funded in the region since 1969 have had little or no favorable impact on the incidence of crime because the risk factor has not been raised to a higher threshold.

Indeed, only 1.4 per cent of the serious crimes reported to the police in the SILEC region result in the incarceration of the perpetrator.

Although this risk factor is negligible, it is fair to point out that the typical offender in the metropolitan areas of the United States.

One of the reasons for failure to raise the risk factor and to lower the rate of crime, we believe, is that at present, other factors, regional levels, the emphasis has been on "innovative" programs, rather than on increasing the fundamental weaknesses in the system whose correction may facilitate the apprehension and punishment of criminals and lower the threshold of community tolerance of crime.

Key to the solution of crime and to the apprehension and punishment of perpetrators are four individuals, who exist in one of two categories: those who are different and those who are the same.

Those who are different are often funded by and responsible to different levels of government, but completely responsible to each other to achieve the goal of creating a meaningful life for those who commit crime.

These are:

—The untrained policeman, or deputy sheriff who first responds to an alarm, the scene of crime and who must expeditiously and effectively conduct an adequate investigation aimed at producing leads to the identification of the responsible perpetrator.

—The detective or investigator, who follows the available leads, who develops leads from informers, who makes a case and makes an arrest.

—The prosecutor, who further develops a case and vigorously pursues it in the courts.

—The judge, who presides at the trial and passes an appropriate sentence.

How effectively these four typically key individuals can work together in large measure to the extent to which the organizations of which they are a part are adequately funded and staffed and on how well-managed they are.

These factors bear heavily on how well-prepared these individuals are to accomplish the expectations placed on them by the community, and how well-motivated they are to achieve results.

Sworn police manpower in the region grew 37 per cent between 1970 and 1976, but there is little evidence of qualitative improvement in police work.

Notably, the major crime solution remains low, and the fragmentation of police effort has been exacerbated.

The size of many of the police agencies in the region is smaller than that required if a unit of production is to be economic and effective.

The region's state attorney's offices, especially in the two urbanized counties, are seriously underfunded and understaffed.

There has been a 182 per cent increase in felony prosecutorial workload, with no appreciable change in staff.

In 1976, Madison County spent only $1.20 per capita and St. Clair County only $1.45 per capita to support their state's attorney's offices.

If well-managed, the substantial increase in this investment may be the single most significant step that can be taken to combat crime in these counties effectively.

In 1975, only 5.2 per cent of felony dispositions were resolved by trial, the remainder being by plea bargaining or dismissal, with dismissal constituting 66.4 per cent.

Because prosecution and defense service must be kept in balance to afford fair trials, an increase in the number of prosecutors and the number of trials would require an increase in the level of public defender services.

Judges in the region have sentenced convicted felons to incarceration in increasing numbers, but a number of constraints on their ability to do so are created by the capacity of the Illinois Department of Corrections to handle prisoners; the absence of opportunities for sentencing in institutions other than prisons, such as state-operated work camps for juveniles, a number of which are closed; and certain features of Illinois law, especially regarding the disposition of juvenile delinquents.

There is concern in the region, and among some SILEC board members, about the board's minimal decision-making powers and SILEC's strategy for reducing crime in the region.

There are opportunities for restricting the SILEC board, its staff and its strategy to enable it to have more impact on results.

Because SILEC strategy has reflected guidance from federal and state agencies concerned with administration of Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) funds, effective change in SILEC strategy will require cooperation by these other levels of governments as well as by SILEC's constituent local units of government.

Under the leadership of its board of directors and executive director, SILEC should undertake long-term action over the next three years to revitalize the Crime Control and Safe Streets program in the region.

The centerpiece of this action should be the adoption of a new strategy that will address the threat of crime in the region directly by:

—Recognizing that the incidence of crime can be influenced by raising the threshold of risk to persons committing crime.

—Seeking to obtain reductions in crime, on both absolute and relative scales.

—Encouraging and supporting programs aimed at achieving fundamental improvements in the apprehension, prosecution and punishment of criminals.

—Identifying and helping correct bottlenecks in the criminal justice systems of the counties, with a view to increasing the capacity to deal with criminals effectively at critical points in the system, rather than seeking ways to divert offenders from the system.

Concentrating effort at points where the greater opportunities for improvement exist (for example, to improve the prosecutorial capacity of the two urbanized counties substantially) and police investigative capacity in East St. Louis and in the rural counties.

—Encouraging the more aggressive role in assisting its constituent local governments in the annual appraisal of criminal justice system components for which they are responsible, and importing operational changes at the state level such as expansion of the penal capacity.

SILEC should carry out restructuring of its board and staff, encourage its local government bodies to adopt the recommendations applicable to them, and importure the ILEC to effect changes at the state level such as expansion of the penal capacity.

SILEC should assume a more extensive decision-making authority under the proposed mini-block grant system.

4 mobile home permits favored

The Madison County Board of Appeals is recommending that the Madison County Board Wednesday approve four mobile home permits for placement of mobile homes in Quad-City area townships.

Recommended for approval is a request of Robert Bunselmyer for a permit to place the placement of a mobile home at 2008 Logan St. and Bruns Road in an agricultural district of Nameoki Township. It is suggested the permit be limited to five years and for the sole use of the Robert Bunselmyer family.

Also receiving the board's endorsement is a request from Orval and Bertha Femmer for placement of a mobile home at 2008 Logan St. and Bruns Road in an agricultural district of Nameoki Township. It is suggested the permit be limited to five years and for the sole use of the Femmer couple for the duration of their lifetimes.

A request by Wes Bauer, property owner, and Beverly Hayes, mobile home owner, for a special use permit to place a mobile home at 2008 Logan St. and Bruns Road in an agricultural district of Nameoki Township, also is endorsed with the stipulation that it be limited to five years and for the sole use of the Hayes family.

The fourth request recommended for approval is from Maurice D. Malone, who wishes to place a mobile home on Mitchell and Route 157 in Chouteau Township for use to one year for the sole use of Malone.

Ailing woman treated at nursing home

A Sister termed as being indigent, age around 60, has been moved from the Sisters of Divine Providence nursing home to the Colonial Haven Nursing Home, Granite City, and put on state aid.

The above nursing home has been brought to my attention and, as a taxpayer, I resent what has been done. The Bishop in Springfield, Ill., instigated this move.

After many years — almost a lifetime of faithful service to the church by the Sister — she has been turned away, to be taken care of by the taxpayers.

The church pays no taxes on its large holdings. At the same time, it can't or won't take care of its own.

She is termed as indigent. How else would she be? How could the church treat a sick, no-longer-useful Sister this way?

She also is in need of surgery. The state does not pay for this type of surgery and the church won't.

What kind of expression of Christian love is this?

DOROTHY BARON
3228 Willow Ave.

The following reply to the writer is by Sister Mary Paul, Mother Provincial, Sisters of Divine Providence:

Bishop Nicholas asked that I write you concerning the Sister. I thank you for your interest in Sister.

In your letter you refer to Sister as being formerly a Sister of Divine Providence. Sister is still a Sister of Divine Providence and her status has not changed since her day of entrance.

Sister has a terminal disease which requires nursing home care as prescribed by her physician. Our Sisters do not have a nursing home and, in our many inquiries of Sisters of other communities, we were not able to place her in an institution other than Catholic nuns.

Sister is now at Colonial Haven, which is close to St. Elizabeth and also to the Sisters in Granite City. The Sisters visit her frequently and try very hard to take care of her needs.

We feel badly about the fact that Sister cannot live with the Sisters because of her illness. However, it would not be fair to her to house her at the Motherhouse, where she could not be up and about as she can at the nursing home.

Should she be housed at the Motherhouse, there is a possibility that we would have to seclude her so deeply that she would have to be out of contact with the Sisters. Sister is not in bed, due to the fact that our building is not built with the necessary safety measures needed for a patient with her condition.

We do not feel embarrassed in asking the Department of Public Aid for help because Sister, by her past work in educating children in our Catholic schools, has helped taxpayers, since our Catholic school children do not receive tax money for their education.

Our teaching Sisters do not receive salaries competitive with lay teachers, since our Catholic parents must support both the public school system and the parochial school system and we feel we should make the burden as easy to bear as possible.

Because of the meager income of our teaching Sisters, it would be very difficult to pay the expenses involved with Sister being in a nursing home.

That is why we have had to resort to asking for public aid help. This was recommended to us by the social worker at Deaconess Hospital.

Sister had formally been hospitalized, and Sister was on public aid in Missouri when she came to a patient in the nursing home in Missouri.

However, when she moved to the hospital, this was interrupted and after that she was placed in an Illinois nursing home.

I hope this explains to you that her condition has required her placement in a nursing home and why we have applied for public aid.

As for Sister's need for surgery, we have no knowledge of such a need and are constantly in contact with her doctor, so there must be some misinformation here. If you understand it, please try to accept this as the best that we can do at the time.

Wide-ranging service work of Church Women United is outlined in Granite City Rotarians last week by Mrs. Marie Gordon, a local member and state chairwoman.

James Rush was program chairman.

Worldwide in membership and activities, including denominations, the organization is emphasizing help for developing "Third World" nations as well as local programs as distribution of layettes, tutoring, prayer circles and monthly parties for Colonial Haven Nursing Home residents.

Peace is a major goal as well as upgrading living standards, Mrs. Gordon told the club.

Shared family activity will be workshop topic

On Tuesday, Aug. 23, at 1:30 p.m. Beatrice Bagby, University of Illinois family specialist, will conduct a local leader session on "Shared Family Activities" at the Cooperative Extension Service office at 800 Hillboro Ave., Edwardsville.

She will discuss establishing family traditions, recreation, educational activities, creative arts, and resources for families to use in planning activities together.

The class is planned as a workshop for Homemakers Extension Association leaders, but any interested person may attend. It is sponsored by the Home Economics Extension Specialist in Madison County under auspices of the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service.

A $250 combination stereo, radio and tape player, a $100 tape recorder, a battery-operated television set, two speakers, a white jewelry box containing earrings and a jar of jam, are known missing after a burglary at the apartment of Pat Warhburg, 2255a Grand Ave., on Monday, Friday and 2:25 a.m. Saturday.

After an unsuccessful attempt to force open the rear kitchen window, the rear door was forced open, breaking the lock out of the door frame, authorities believe.

Several chests in the apartment were ransacked.
